PANDEMONIUM BREAKS OUT AS KLAN SCORED; MCADOO DEMONSTRATION LASTS AN HOUR

Convention Takes Adjournment Until Tomorrow Following Demonstration For McAdoo

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, June 25.—Wm. Gibbs McAdoo, foremost of the leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, was placed in nomination this afternoon as the first stage in the great elimination contest among McAdoo and the field was under way.

McAdoo's demonstration lasted an hour, following which the convention adjourned until 10:30 tomorrow morning.

It was just 3:34 o'clock when Senator Phelan closed his long nominating speech with a ringing appeal for the Californian. The sun was heating down through the skylights on an already well baked convention. The crowd had grown somewhat hoarse and listless under a long and talk warm day. Then—

Mention of McAdoo's name.

A tremendous cheer as many delegates rose shouting to their feet. About the heads and the coats of scores of men and women were cowboy bandana handkerchiefs in the colors of California state.

First out into the aisles was the California delegation gayly begarbed, a beautiful bit of western pageantry in the van.

Purched upon the shoulders of two stalwarts was pretty Miss Josephine Normand of Los Angeles, in the dress and crown of the Goddess of Liberty, carrying the colors of California and McAdoo.

Behind her ranged four beautiful girls interior of the hall, but stuck gamely to the dress of glorio trumpeters and each playing a silver cornet.

One after another the delegations—that that are out for McAdoo, swept out into the line.

The hall and galleries was a bedlam of noise—shouts, cheers and cowbells crashing in opposition. The standards up in the parade were Hawaii, California, Kentucky, Texas, Pennsylvania, Philippines, Washington, Idaho, District of Columbia, Oregon, Canal Zone, Montana, Utah, North Dakota, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Iowa, Wyoming, South Carolina, South Carolina, Arizona, Tennessee, Florida, Illinois, South Dakota, Connecticut, and Nevada. But in some of these states the standard bearers represented only a portion of the complete delegation. The demonstration was still going strong after five minutes.

Miss Normand was almost a wreck after her first journey around the interior of the hall, but stuck gamely to her post. Mrs. McAdoo who occupied a box with some friends directly across from the speaker's platform, looked down with smiling happiness on the demonstration. The second time the marchers went around the hall they stopped and staged an extra cheering stunt.

"Bill, Bill, we want Bill!" was the chant set up and soon it was going on all over the garden. After the demonstration had gone for ten minutes—the longest one staged yet at this convention—it was necessary to furnish relief for the young men who had been carrying Miss Normand. In the crushing heat and almost breathless congestion of the aisles the young chaps had to call for assistance.

"We want McAdoo—we want McAdoo!" the throng shouted. They stopped the parade a moment for pictures and a great about went up to which after her first journey around the

Brennan Claims 700 Pledged To Support An Anti-Klan Plank

(BY PAUL R. MALLON)

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

UNITED PRESS HEADQUARTERS, WASHINGTON, June 25.—(By the United Press)—After a careful canvass of the sentiment in the Democratic convention on the Klan issue, George E. Brennan, Democratic boss of Illinois, and leader of the Anti-Klan movement, claimed today that more than 700 delegates are now pledged to vote for a plank denouncing the hooded organization by name.

Brennan is more determined, than ever to carry the fight for a strong Klan plank to the floor if there is any pussy-footing or attempt at straddling the question in the convention.

6 Killed As Lightning Strikes Quarry Shed

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., June 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Six men, one a negro, were killed late yesterday when lightning struck a quarry shed near here in which they had taken shelter from a storm and exploded 150 pounds of dynamite. The explosion was felt for a radius of two miles.

Ohio Republicans Endorse Pre-Primary Convention To Pick State, National Slate

COLUMBUS, O., June 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Ohio Republicans today went on record officially through their party platform for a pre-primary convention to recommend candidates for all state and national offices, and urged the next general assembly to enact adequate laws to make such convention effective.

George H. Clark, of Canton, and State Chairman Charles W. Montgomery, of Newark, were unanimously chosen presidential electors at large by the convention today. All district electors named yesterday by caucuses also were elected by the convention.

A single voice was raised in opposition to the pre-primary convention when the platform was presented for adoption by the state convention to-day as drafted by the committee on resolutions. In the committee's deliberations a few had urged that the convention go even further and urge repeal of the present primary law.

The platform's declaration of the subject follows:

"We recommend that the next general assembly amend the present primary laws of Ohio so that they shall provide for a pre-primary convention with authority to recommend candidates for all state and national offices, and to the primary election thereafter."

Under this provision, not only would candidates for all state offices be subject to endorsement by such pre-primary convention but also candidates for United States senator. Congressmen being voted on at large in the state would not be subject to such pre-primary endorsement unless the law were amended still further to permit of district pre-primary conventions.

Endorse Four Incumbents

In limited measure, the present convention resorted to the pre-primary endorsement plan as the platform carried an unqualified endorsement of the four incumbent Republican state officials and pledged their support for second terms, notwithstanding the fact that two have opposition for re-election. The candidates so endorsed were Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, Auditor Joseph T. Tracy, Treasurer Harry S. Day and Attorney General C. C. Crabbe. Brown and Crabbe both have opposition.

The platform completely ignored the Ku Klux Klan issue and direct mention of prohibition enforcement but to take care of the latter, carried a plank declaring for strict enforcement of all laws. By inference the prohibition laws are included in the general pronouncement on law enforcement.

The pronouncement on taxation was general and of broad scope, the present system of taxation being condemned as unsound and pledging the party for a complete revision of the tax laws. The plank on taxation said "The present system of taxation in this state, however, ignores every principle of equality in tax burdens and of sound government. We pledge ourselves to undertake a complete revision of that complicated system."

The national platform was commended as "constructive, intelligent statement of the policies of the Republican party," and Republicans of the nation were congratulated on the selection of President Coolidge and

Campbell Refuses To Call Caucus On Klan Row Among Ohioans

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, June 25.—(United Press)—The fight of W. W. Durbin to have the Ohio delegation rescind its action in adopting a plank renouncing the Ku Klux Klan by name apparently collapsed today on the floor of the convention.

Durbin had announced that he and his supporters would place a letter in the hands of Chairman Campbell demanding another meeting of the Ohioans to rescind the anti-Klan move.

The letter however was not given to Campbell, and as nominations were then in order for president on the convention floor it was believed Durbin had abandoned his fight.

Later peace was believed definitely restored in the ranks of the Ohio delegation when Harvey C. Garber, former congressman from Ohio and a resident of Columbus, arrived in town.

He went into conference immediately with W. W. Durbin who had been accused of throwing a monkey wrench into the Ohio machinery and came out announcing that Durbin had promised to withdraw his belligerency.

Cox supporters welcomed the announcement as putting James M. Cox back in the running for the presidential nomination, his boom having faded with the split in the delegation caused by Durbin's attitude.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(By the Associated Press)—The Ku Klux Klan fight within the Ohio delegation to the Democratic National Convention died a natural death today with the practical refusal of former Governor James E. Campbell, delegation chairman, to call another caucus of the Buckeye delegates.

At their caucus Monday, the Ohioans adopted a resolution offered by Edmund H. Moore, of Youngstown, Ohio, new national committee chairman, instructing Newton D. Baker, the Ohio member of the resolution committee to offer an anti-Ku Klux Klan plank. Declaring that they did not think such a plank advisable at this time and that they had no opportunity of voting against the Moore resolution in caucus, ten members of the Ohio delegation petitioned their chairman to call another caucus to rescind the Ku Klux Klan action.

Chairman Campbell was understood today to be of the opinion that it is now too late to rescind the caucus action, inasmuch as the resolutions committee is now drafting a platform and

Address Nominating Underwood Made By Fordney Johnson Rouses Delegates To High Pitch

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 25.—The Klan as an issue matched its strength against oil and all other issues in a preliminary scrimmage on the floor of the convention today and won a decisive victory.

At the same time William Gibbs McAdoo, the first of the leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination tested the appeal of his candidacy directly before the delegates in the open for the first time and was responsible for the greatest and most colorful demonstration on the floor that has marked a Democratic convention in many years.

The first big crash in the heat-iron anarchy of the delegates occurred after all preliminary business save the report of the platform committee had been cleared away and, by special rule, the call of states began for presidential nominations.

Alabama answered present with a candidate of its own. Fordney Johnson, a clean cut young orator from the south presented the name of Senator Underwood. But, while Underwood himself did not appeal much to the imagination of the delegates, Johnson, during his address, mentioned for the first time in the convention "that secret hooded order the Ku Klux Klan."

It proved the battle cry of action.

Hundreds of delegates leaped to their feet. Fights occurred in two delegations.

Hats were thrown in the air—in the cry against Klanism.

George Brennan and others of the Anti-McAdoo leaders stood at their posts quietly, not participating in the bedlam—but smiling contentedly.

The demonstration lasted for many minutes. Mention of the Klan had aroused an uproar where previous mention of good and honest government, the League of Nations and numerous other issues, thoughtfully considered and ably set forth, had commanded only desultory cheering and relatively little applause.

The demonstration showed that the delegates, thus far at least, have as the first great issue in mind, a clear cut cleavage with the Klan.

And, if the issue is to determine the candidate, McAdoo, despite the remarkable demonstration accorded first mention of his name, hardly appears to be the chosen one. The McAdoo demonstration endured for more than an hour—it was one of gay enthusiasm over McAdoo personally. It found, for example the Illinois standard in the parade permitted to be there by George Brennan of Illinois, a majority of whose delegation is "Anti-McAdoo." It was a combination of lustrous enthusiasm which had waited long for a vent, and a seventh fitting stretch which was welcome after Senator Phelan's long and rather grab presentation speech.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER

(United Press Correspondent)

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 25.—(By United Press)—Pandemonium broke out in Madison Square Garden this afternoon.

Fordney Johnson, of Alabama, placing Senator Oscar Underwood's name before the convention, denounced the "hooded and secret organization known as the Ku Klux Klan." With a crashing cheer, delegates arose to their chairs, shouted, threw hats in the air and finally started a parade.

Fights broke out in the Mississippi and Colorado delegations, requiring policemen to intervene.

The standard holder in the Mississippi delegation started off to follow Alabama in the parade of delegations but was hauled back by a fellow delegate with the aid of two women.

The Colorado fight ended in a near fist fight. Bitter feelings developed as several members fought for and against attacking the Colorado banner to the parade.

The standard was wrecked in the melee.

The worst of the outcries ended when the band struck up America and men and women paraded with American flags.

KLAN AND OIL MIX IN STRANGE CONFUSION

Klan and oil mingled in strange confusion in the Democratic National Convention today.

Sweltering beneath the rays of a hot June sun which poured down upon the Garden, delegates listened to the speech of Permanent Chairman Thomas J. Walsh, in which he attacked the Republican administration, charging wholesale corruption, and reciting the story of the oil scandal.

Then came nominating speeches for this afternoon, with Alabama first, presenting Senator Underwood.

But, at the Waldorf Hotel and in Washington, even more important events were breaking.

Throughout the morning the resolutions committee at the Waldorf heard arguments for various planks to be put in the platform. The Klan battle led all the rest. It appears that the fight on this issue will certainly go to the floor of the convention unless the platform committee refrains a strong Anti-Klan plank, specially mentioning the Klan by name. George Brennan, of Illinois, claims 700 votes in the convention for an anti-Klan plank, and unless the platform, as reported, condemns the Klan he would have every man and woman in the convention called to stand up and state his position with respect to the hooded order.

Meantime, in Washington the government announced the filing of suits against fifty oil companies on charge of conspiracy to violate the anti-trust laws.

COUNTER MOVE MADE BY COOLIDGE ADMINISTRATION

News of this action reached the platform just as Senator Walsh was starting his speech as temporary chairman. It was regarded by Democrats as a very apparent counter political move, timed to the moment to offset the new outbreak of Democratic censure for the oil scandals.

Furthermore, leaders declared, the administration can hardly take a vast amount of credit for the action inasmuch as the information on which the suits are based has been a matter of public record for two years, having first been brought out by Senator La Follette.

The resolutions committee concluded its public hearings shortly before 1 o'clock and adjourned until 2:30 when the drafting committee will meet to start the actual construction of the platform in executive session.

Bonus Blanks Can Be Secured From Red Cross

A supply of application blanks to be filled out for ex-service men to obtain bonus payments or insurance from the government, was received yesterday at the offices of the Portsmouth Chapter, American Red Cross, First National Bank building, according to announcement by Miss Virginia Lile, secretary.

The Red Cross, Miss Lile says, will be glad to assist soldiers, sailors, and marines in filling out the forms, but especially requests that no general rush for the forms be made at this time, as only a limited number of forms can be made out in a day.

Delay in filling out the forms will have no effect on payment of the bonus, as all insurance policies will be dated January 1, 1925, and none of the cash payments will be made before March 1, 1925. Cash payments are only available to ex-service men whose compensation will not amount to more than $50.

One reason why only a limited number of applications can be made out by the Red Cross workers during a day is that time must be taken to place the finger prints of veterans on the application blanks, for War Department records.

For the benefit of the wishing to make application for the bonus, the following is taken from instructions accompanying the blanks:

Fill out your application from the information on your discharge certificate or a certificate in lieu of lost or destroyed discharge certificate, if possible, but, if you have neither with you, do not delay your own and other veterans by writing for a certificate in lieu. If you do not have a discharge certificate or a certificate in lieu, answer the questions on the application blank from memory to the best of your ability. But, in any case do not write to the war or navy departments, marine corps, or the veterans bureau for a certificate in lieu or for information relative to your service. The task of administering the compensation law is of such magnitude that any unnecessary correspondence on the part of applicants will materially increase the work of administration and will result in a consequent delay, not only in setting your own claim but also the claims of all other veterans. All the departments of the Government in any way connected with the administration of the Adjusted Compensation Act or with the settlement of claims arising thereunder, are endeavoring to expedite their work with the least delay and are anxious to settle the claims of veterans as soon as possible after receipt of an application. This can not be done unless all veterans cooperate by following instructions and submitting their applications correctly made out. Be sure to follow instructions carefully, and when you receive notification that your application has been received and that you have been assigned an application number, do not write asking your application, unless there is something wrong with it, in which case the department or bureau handling it will communicate with you. Remember that, in addition to your own claim, there are some five and one-half million others that must be considered. If you bear this in mind you will realize that at best it will take some little time for your application to be acted on.

If you come in any of the following classes, do not submit an application, because no individual falling in any of these groups is entitled to any compensation whatsoever under the provisions of World War Adjusted Compensation act.

(1) Not a member of the military or naval forces of the United States at any time after April 5, 1917, or before November 12, 1918, and whose total service does not exceed sixty days.

(2) Separated from the service other than honorable conditions.

(3) Conscientious objections who performed no military duty whatever or refused to wear the uniform.

(4) Any alien discharged from the military or naval forces because of allegiance.

(5) Welfare workers, including the American Red Cross and officers thereof.

(6) Entire service in any one or more of the classes enumerated in the preceding paragraph.

Attendance at an officers' training camp, unless already a member of the military or naval forces, is not considered as compensable service and consequently no benefits of compensation accrue therefor during the period a veteran might have been in attendance.

When properly filled up and witnessed, or sworn to in the case of dependents, the application must be sent to one of the following places, depending on whether your last service was in the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, or Marine Corps.

For the Army to—
Adjusted Compensation Branch,
The Adjutant General's Office,
Washington, D. C.

For the Navy or Coast Guard to—
Adjusted Compensation Branch,
Bureau of Navigation,
Washington, D. C.

For the Marine Corps to—
Adjusted Compensation Branch,
U. S. Marine Corps,
Washington, D. C.

Harness races will be a new feature at the Soloto County Farm Bureau and Grange picnic to be held July 4 at the Lucasville. Fair grounds. The committee on races has added another race which is expected to have a large number of entries. This race will be for all candidates aspiring to county offices, and judging from the number of candidates entered in the County Commissioner's scramble, the race should be hotly contested. The race will be for 100 yards.

The horse races will include pacing and trotting events. Eight entries have been signed up for these events. The majority of the horses are in training at the Picketon race track at present.

A baseball game has also been booked between Lucasville and the Mohawk Tires nine of Portsmouth. The complete program of events: 10:00 a. m. Horseshoe pitching contest. Prize, one pair regulation shoes.

Base ball game.

Bean guessing contest for women, open from 10 a. m. to 1:45 p. m. Prize one sack of sugar.

Lyric To Close Doors Saturday, July 5,
Will Give Way To Addition To Bank Building

The Lyric theatre, to give way to an addition to the First National bank building, will close its doors on Saturday night, July 5, it was announced today, the management having been notified to this effect by owners of the bank building.

The company operating the Lyric long one of the most popular movie houses in Southern Ohio, is already casting about for a new location, but has arrived at no definite decision. The house was opened in 1911 by The E. G. Nave company and was managed by Francis Mack, Fred N. Tynes and for the past two years by Miss Charlotte Bannan. She stated today that several of the best features in the movie world would be secured for the last two weeks of the Lyric.

When the third youth took a hand in the mixup Mr. Pirrung had to release his hold on one lad and he escaped in the crowd.

Lower Court Reversed In Delinquency Case

Miss Mabel Austin, 17, daughter of 612 Sixth street, was adjudged guilty of delinquency at a hearing in juvenile court Wednesday and Judge Gilliland made her a ward of the court. The hearing disclosed that the complaint charging Miss Austin with reckless driving was based on a false statement made by a neighbor. The defense promptly objected to the finding and judgment of Judge Gilliland and immediately presented error to Common Pleas court and Judge Thomas on reviewing the case this afternoon reversed the Probate court.

During the hearing in Common Pleas court the ruling of the lower court came in for considerable caustic comment by Prosecutor Skelton, who appeared for the state, and Judge Blair for the defendant, as well as Judge Thomas, who said in giving his decision that he approached the case with considerable trepidation in view of the fact that the learned court below is an authority on juvenile delinquency.

Harrison Had Chance To Put Himself In Line For The Nomination But He Didn't

(BY C. C. MILL)
(United States Senator From Washington)

(Written for the United Press)
NEW YORK, June 25.—(By the United Press)—Everybody's happy. That's the end of a perfect first convention day.

Pat Harrison smiled and smiled, while he played the double role of hero to the Democrats and villain to the Republicans.

He is an uninitiated delegate and the friends of every candidate found much in what he said to prove that their particular candidate is exactly the man to nominate.

Harrison had a chance to place himself in line for the nomination if the convention should deadlock and find it necessary to break to a new candidate, but he didn't. Everybody praised him but not enough to justify a presidential nomination. He pictured the Republicans dark, inefficient and corrupt, but failed to inspire his audience at the vision of promised land or with confidence that he could lead the American people to it if there were one.

The delegates found the great hall most agreeable. They never before saw so many flags in one place. Then the thousands of fluttering little flags falling like confetti from the stripes of the monster flag overhead while the band played, and everybody sang "The Star Spangled Banner" gave them a complete thrill.

Being the opening day everybody was glad to see everybody else. Even the McAdams and Smith delegates smiled at each other and shook hands cordially. That might have been much like the prize fighters shaking hands before they begin pummeling one another, but Harrison's speech made them so happy that they almost forgot for a little while that they were here to fight instead of celebrating.

So they applauded and stood up and sang down and applauded some more during the first ten minutes. When the speaker began quoting statistics, most of the delegates turned to study the flag decorations and locate the seating of the different state delegations.

He called back their attention with mention of Paul Harvey and Woodrow Wilson and then the leaders staged a parade while Harrison rested and everybody wondered whether or not he was done.

Again he lost the attention of the vast throng by discussing the League of Nations but brought cheers with prediction of victory in the fall, so that with the beginning and ending of his speech everybody was happy.

Auto Slipped Off Road

No one was injured and but little damage resulted when the sedan driven by Miss Nellie Fourn, 634 Sixth street, slipped off the road as she was turning from a narrow lane on the main road on the West Side near the Vaughters farm yesterday. It was necessary for the car to be pulled from the ditch, but very slight damage was done. With Miss Fourn in the car were Miss Charlotte Lewis and Miss Aretta Burris, all three of them teachers in the public schools here.

Grade Crossing Elimination
Will Be Discussed Tomorrow

Chairman E. A. Steilman and James Hooper of the City Council Committee on Railroads, Telephone and Telegraph met at the office of the third member of the Committee, Attorney W. L. Dickey, First National bank building, last night and planned for a conference the Committee will have Thursday morning with representatives of the Norfolk and Western, when grade crossing elimination will be discussed.

The conference is to be held in the office of Attorney H. T. Bannan, local legal advisor for the N. & W. Attorney Bannan, General Superintendent H. C. Weller and Senior Division Superintendent D. F. Peters will represent the N. & W. as President A. C. Needles has sent word he cannot be here tomorrow as planned.

The Committee last night agreed that the first important matter to be decided will be to obtain from the Norfolk and Western some idea as to how many grade crossings they will be willing to eliminate in the city.

Bitter Fight

Missouri will roll up a 200,000 majority against us for the Republicans if you do not make yourself heard emphatically on this vital issue," Hawes said. "You can have your choice of denouncing the Klan in your report or forcing the convention to write a denunciation of the Klan into your report."

Right behind Hawes came Julius Aichele, of Denver, who presented the Colorado Democratic state convention plan, denouncing the Klan as "Un-American and infamous."

"Adopt this plank now or we will present it on the convention floor and force every delegate to vote yes or no on the issue," Aichele said.

Moore Chides Republicans

Then came Ed H. Moore, of Ohio, who chided the Republican convention for sidestepping this issue. He said:

"If this committee is so cowardly as to avoid mention of the Klan by name you will please the Imperial Kluge but you will lose votes."

Then a Wisconsin delegate attempted to force through the committee a motion which would have pledged states to the stand taken by their members of the committee but Chairman Homer Cummings ruled the motion out of order and the session closed in a flurry of confusion.

Outside of the Klan fight there is little save the League of Nations which is expected to cause the drafting committee any trouble.

Members of the committee, after sounding out the sentiment summed up the prospects on important planks to the United Press as follows:

KLAN—A strong division of opinion with Anti-Klan representatives of the belief that the Klan will be denounced by name and the moderate faction confident that a milder denunciation of "secret orders" will be adopted. Guarantees of political and religious freedom under the constitution will be reaffirmed unanimously.

PROHIBITION—Planks as drawn by drafting committee will call for complete enforcement of law and have no wet taint. (Wets will hold a secret caucus today to plan a fight on the floor for substitution of a wet plank. They intend to ignore the committee.)

FOREIGN POLICIES—The president-elect, Harding, American adherence to the league with the moderate faction apparently assured of success for their plan of endorsing the league without pledging American participation. A pledge for American entrance into the world court of justice. A denunciation of the Hughes policy toward "Turkey" which will charge that the Republican program permitted mistreatment of Armenia and was based on encouraging Turkish favor for American oil interests.

FARM RELIEF—Denunciation of congress for its failure to provide adequate farm relief and pledging support of the Democratic party for legislation to encourage marketing of farm products at home and abroad. A declaration for extensive government aid in providing credit facilities.

TAXATION—A plank written by Senator Jones, of New Mexico, concerning Mellon plan urging publicity for returns and sanctioning the Democratic rates as adopted by congress.

Declarations for repeal and revision of the Esch-Cummings rail rate and making a law for Philippine independence also are expected to be included.

The drafting committee appointed includes: Cummings, chairman; Wm. J. Bryan; Wm. H. O'Brien, of Indiana; Wm. A. Ayres; Kansas; David T. Walsh; Massachusetts; Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Nebraska; Key Pittman, Nevada; Joseph A. Kellogg, New York; Newton D. Baker, Ohio; Elmer Gurnea, Tennessee; Senator Owen, of Oklahoma. They meet at 10 a. m. to begin the work of drafting.

The hearings may be reopened for Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor and some others who wish to make brief addresses. The hearing began yesterday afternoon and continued on through until nearly 2 a. m. when they were officially closed.

Scores of speakers representing every phase of legislation from "Blue Law Sundays" to the American adherence to the league were heard while a dance band in the next room drowned their voices in tunes of jazz.

Organized Labor Presents Demands NEW YORK, June 25.—(By the Associated Press)—The request of organized labor to represent by the American Federation of Labor were placed before the committee drafting the platform today by President Gompers, Secretary Morrison and other members of the organization.

These were the same as those urged upon the recent Republican National Convention at Cleveland.

Among the more important were insistence upon the repeal of the anti-trust laws and the enactment of legislation legalizing economic organization; prohibition of court injunctions in industrial disputes; a child labor constitutional amendment; authorization of agreements between employers and employees; the rehabilitation of former service men; adequate compensation for governmental employees; comprehensive workmen's compensation law; the sale of 2 3-4 percent beer; prohibition of military conscription except for defensive purposes; a constitutional amendment which would give by a two-thirds vote could set aside a decision of the supreme court declaring a law unconstitutional and graduated income and inheritance taxes with opposition to a sales tax.

To expedite the drafting of the platform a committee of three was appointed by Senator William C. King, of Utah, set to work today to sift out the various planks offered at the public hearings of the platform committee and whip them into shape for presentation to the sub-committee for their further consideration.

Senator King turned over the work to a sub-committee that had been offered to the sub-committee for their consideration. By this procedure, said Senator King, the collaborating committee will get the more important planks into some shape while the sub-committee is working on the Klan and other controversial issues.

The belief of the sub-committee was that the final draft of the platform that would go to the full resolutions committee would not be completed before Thursday morning. This was the view as expressed by Senator King.

Varying views on farm relief were set forth by Carl Vrooman, former assistant secretary of agriculture, Representative Aswell, of Louisiana, Walton Poteet, secretary of the national council of cooperative marketing associations and Benjamin C. Marsh, of the Farmers' National Council.

Mr. Vrooman, a Representative, spoke for creation of a government organization to buy farm products and sell them abroad, government ownership of railroads, tariff revision, aid in carrying their debts and abolition of price fixing organizations.

Although no opponents of prohibition appeared before the committee, friends of the conflicting views, Robert B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, Bishop James J. Cannon, Jr., and others said they would be content with a simple "law enforcement" plank, but Oliver W. Stewart, of the Flying Squadron, incorporated, advocated legislation for rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

mediately join the league as it is that we abandon foolish antagonism to any world movement, however commendable in itself, merely because it is in some way associated with the league.

"We may confidently rely upon general support of active participation by our government in any effort that may be made through the league or any other channel to bring about a restoration of normal industrial activity in Europe."

"The honor of our country, the prosperity of our people demand that we return to the ideals of Woodrow Wilson, that we resume the place he won for us—the moral leadership of the world."

Attacking the administration record from its beginning Walsh said that "back to normalcy" meant back to the day "when Hanna ruled and Aldridge legislated, when the senate was a millionaires' club, doing the bidding of the 'invisible government'."

Furthermore the slogan "every nation for itself" very easily led to the stated thought in "every man for himself," he said.

Because the same element within it that "controlled and wrecked" the Republican party in 1912 retained its supremacy in 1920, he said, it would not be so strange that the new President was specially surrounded by a group of accessories, whose sinister purposes he was from his ignominious journey to suspect and for one person or another, unable to discern.

Scores Old Scandal Principals

"What a galaxy," he exclaimed, "Trabes, Hall, Duffey, Jess Smith, Huntington, Follen, Darden, Kramer, Keith, Ruston, and Gaston R. Means in the background." He chided the Republican party for not "execrating" its unfaithful public servants, and added "It is in this easy tolerance of turpitude in public office that the real path to free government lies, rather than in its casual occurrence."

"It is the hour of the triumph of an individualism and selfishness," Walsh continued, when the policy of isolation was said to have been overwhelming, and when as stated—every sordid interest came clamoring to Washington the Republican party entered upon the task of reviving the tariff. No portentious voice now dispersed the idle chattering lobby over night. This speaker showed his handwork.

"There is an exquisite harmony between the policy of isolation and of a protective tariff as conceived by this statesman, and as exemplified in the act of 1922. Why trouble ourselves about the troubles of Europe? Let her stew in her own juice. Let us not even trade with her. Of course no such policy was, or could be pursued."

"A decent respect for the unfortunate consumer placed some restraint upon the rapacity of the favor seekers. The promptings of a common humanity no less than the distress of agriculture relying upon markets across the sea forced a grudging attention to conditions, prevailing and events transpiring there."

"Bills that went at their request to assist in drafting the statute for the World Court, John Russell Moore to sit as one of its judges, Abram Elkins to arbitrate the Aaland island dispute, Norman Davis to adjust the Poland-Lithuania boundary controversy, Henry Morgenthau to promote the establishment of industry of the Greek refugees; Charles G. Dawes to solve the reparations angle and professor Shotwell and General Bliss to work out a disarmament program. But the government of the United States must do nothing lest the irreconcilables disrupt the Republican party."

"No such disaster has ever befallen that section. The depressed period of the nineties on which Republican orators decimated for a generation bore no comparison to the present deplorable era."

"Though conditions are most acute in the Northwest every product that must find a foreign market is affected. Banks are suspending at the rate of more than a thousand per year, signifying social readjustments of the most far reaching character."

Republicans Helpless to Give Relief

"In the face of an impending calamity the Republican party is impotent. It finds itself plagued with representatives in both houses of congress, representative of current thought among their constituencies, holding views so radical they antagonize those of the dominant faction in the Action Taken When He Cracks Whip At Columbus Meeting; Kearns Postmasters Spring Coup McCowen Issues Statement

The specter of real opposition for the Republican nomination for congress from this district, has thrown fear into the hearts of Congressman Charles C. Kearns and his intimate advisers of the district. And fear has made them throw discretion to the winds. They are casting about in the greatest disorder, grasping at straws, seeking encouragement and whistling like mad in order to bolster up their courage and convey the impression that they are not concerned over the outcome of the primary contest.

The uneasiness of Kearns and his associates over the candidacy of Hon. E. O. McCowen, of Portsmouth, prompted them Tuesday to "pull a boner" in the judgment of political observers. Under direct orders from Kearns and Col. D. Q. Harrow, his campaign manager, delegates from the counties of the Sixth district to the Republican state convention were called into caucus and asked to pass a resolution endorsing Kearns for re-nomination. There were only a few delegates present. Kearns and a few were either Kearns postmasters or men beholden to Kearns for political favors. They were unanimous, of course, for Kearns. They leaped through the hoop when Colonel Morrow cracked the whip and they performed like automatons when he belittled their orders. And these orders are disclosed in the following Associated Press dispatch from Columbus:

COLUMBUS, O., June 25.—(By the A. P.)—The Sixth district caucus Tuesday afternoon unanimously endorsed Congressman Charles C. Kearns for re-nomination.

He is opposed for re-nomination by E. O. McCowen, county superintendent of schools of Scioto county, and by Samuel A. Bass, of Milford.

Needless to say the passage of this resolution has caused a tumult in the Sixth district. While it amounts to no more than a personal endorsement of the present incumbent, it is a blow to the opposition. It is a blow to make it appear as if an organization endorsement of Kearns has aroused lovers of fair play all over the district and it is certain that Congressman Kearns will get a reaction not at all to his liking. In Scioto county, it was heard Wednesday day to find any Republican who would admit that he attended the convention at Columbus yesterday or that he participated in the Kearns endorsement caucus. Walter Dickey was there, but is not disposed to talk much. The majority of the local delegates is hostile to the candidacy of Mr. McCowen, but his friends did not attend the convention. Similar conditions are reported in other counties and it is stated that the Kearns postmasters, being advised of the scheme, to endorse him, passed the word to their men to be sure and attend the caucus.

Mr. Cowen, when advised of the action of the caucus, issued a statement in which he said:

"There are 15 delegates from Scioto county to the state convention. At least one half of them are Republicans. I have said they will support me for congress and I have no reason to doubt their word. Several of those who are my supporters were unable to attend the convention. Had they been there, so such action would have been taken."

The action, however, is immaterial and of no particular value. The delegates were not elected to pass on the endorsement of anyone for congress. They have, if the reported action of a few of the delegates be correct, overstepped their authority, and the endorsement carries no weight more than the endorsement of so many individuals.

Scioto county has been deprived of a congressman for years by the clamor of a few Scioto county wage-leaders. This action is running true to past form. But this time Scioto county Republicans are too determined to prevent the possibility of anything on any program of isolation. Its frantic effort to rid itself of the endorsement of these insurgent members is as ludicrous as it will prove futile. They cannot be shaken off. They have the endorsement of their people. No regular or stand-pat Republican could make head against any one of them. They represent a revolt in a region over which the Republican party has long held sway.

The President was at odds with the majority wing with which he is supposed to be sympathetic, on the World Court, the Pension bill, the adjusted compensation bill, and to a greater or less extent, on the Immigration bill. And now to cap the climax, unseemly dissensions rend the party organization charged with the conduct of the campaign about to begin.

"Upon the record of the Democratic party through eight years of glorious history from 1913 to 1921 we submit that it should again be entrusted with the direction of our national affairs."

Out at South Webster, Dr. A. G. Stevens, who was a delegate to the Republican State Convention, but who did not attend, let out a war whoop when he heard the news from Columbus. Due has sharpened his knives and gone on the war-path in earnest, denouncing the action of the ring-nosed delegates as unwarranted and unfair. Like other friends of Mr. McCowen he has been stirred into increased activity by the political trick that was turned.

Howard K. Harvey, of Emma, Grauer, Harry W. Miller and Joe Crumley were said to have been present. Politicians are wondering where Joe was when the Kearns band paraded.

COLUMBUS, O., June 25.—The Sixth district caucus, which endorsed Congressman Kearns for re-nomination, was held in Auditor Tracy's private office. Mr. Kearns bossed the meeting in person and the motion to endorse him for re-nomination was made by Harry McKenzie, who has a job in Kearns' office. Less than one-half the delegates were present and only four from Scioto county. Two of the four did not vote but expressed themselves as being against the resolution.

It was the subdued enthusiasm which prompted his efforts to crash through all the outstanding factor of the coming campaign. Harrison rang all possible changes on the point but it was noticeable that the delegates laughed and cheered more at the clever turns of his language than they did in support of his resolutions. It is almost the fact that delegates are talking and thinking more of the Klan as a campaign cry than they are of anything else.

Senator Walsh in his address as permanent chairman may swing the delegates back to what party leaders as he believes to be the one great issue he fought out at the polls—can government be trusted to do the job? It is almost the fact that delegates are talking and thinking more of the Klan as a campaign cry than they are of anything else.

Walsh may Switch the Issue to Oil Appearance of Walsh in the role of Keynote No. 2 today held the possibility of his becoming the outstanding dark horse candidate if he is able to switch the feeling on the dominant issue from Klan back to oil. If the Klan is to be made the rallying call of Democracy this morning, leaders say a protestant must be nominated to prevent the campaign becoming life with religious feeling. If oil, however, is the campaign slogan, friends of Walsh in the northwest take this position: "We have always known Walsh was a big man. But we always have thought his Catholic faith prevented his being nominated for the presidency. If Governor Smith, who is a Catholic, can command wide support for the nomination, Walsh can command even wider support. We are for Walsh."

A strong anti-Klan plank, which friends point out, would certainly bring a counter attack in Klan states against Catholics and probably jeopardize the latter's chances of election.

Newton D. Baker, member of the drafting committee, is bent upon making the League of Nations the compromise dominant issue. He is prepared to make a vigorous fight on the floor to this end.

party so as to preclude the possibility of anything on any program of isolation. Its frantic effort to rid itself of the endorsement of these insurgent members is as ludicrous as it will prove futile. They cannot be shaken off. They have the endorsement of their people. And now to cap the climax, unseemly dissensions rend the party organization charged with the conduct of the campaign about to begin.

"Upon the record of the Democratic party through eight years of glorious history from 1913 to 1921 we submit that it should again be entrusted with the direction of our national affairs."

Out at South Webster, Dr. A. G. Stevens, who was a delegate to the Republican State Convention, but who did not attend, let out a war whoop when he heard the news from Columbus. Due has sharpened his knives and gone on the war-path in earnest, denouncing the action of the ring-nosed delegates as unwarranted and unfair. Like other friends of Mr. McCowen he has been stirred into increased activity by the political trick that was turned.

Howard K. Harvey, of Emma, Grauer, Harry W. Miller and Joe Crumley were said to have been present. Politicians are wondering where Joe was when the Kearns band paraded.

COLUMBUS, O., June 25.—The Sixth district caucus, which endorsed Congressman Kearns for re-nomination, was held in Auditor Tracy's private office. Mr. Kearns bossed the meeting in person and the motion to endorse him for re-nomination was made by Harry McKenzie, who has a job in Kearns' office. Less than one-half the delegates were present and only four from Scioto county. Two of the four did not vote but expressed themselves as being against the resolution.

It was the subdued enthusiasm which prompted his efforts to crash through all the outstanding factor of the coming campaign. Harrison rang all possible changes on the point but it was noticeable that the delegates laughed and cheered more at the clever turns of his language than they did in support of his resolutions. It is almost the fact that delegates are talking and thinking more of the Klan as a campaign cry than they are of anything else.

Senator Walsh in his address as permanent chairman may swing the delegates back to what party leaders as he believes to be the one great issue he fought out at the polls—can government be trusted to do the job? It is almost the fact that delegates are talking and thinking more of the Klan as a campaign cry than they are of anything else.

Walsh may Switch the Issue to Oil Appearance of Walsh in the role of Keynote No. 2 today held the possibility of his becoming the outstanding dark horse candidate if he is able to switch the feeling on the dominant issue from Klan back to oil. If the Klan is to be made the rallying call of Democracy this morning, leaders say a protestant must be nominated to prevent the campaign becoming life with religious feeling. If oil, however, is the campaign slogan, friends of Walsh in the northwest take this position: "We have always known Walsh was a big man. But we always have thought his Catholic faith prevented his being nominated for the presidency. If Governor Smith, who is a Catholic, can command wide support for the nomination, Walsh can command even wider support. We are for Walsh."

A strong anti-Klan plank, which friends point out, would certainly bring a counter attack in Klan states against Catholics and probably jeopardize the latter's chances of election.

Newton D. Baker, member of the drafting committee, is bent upon making the League of Nations the compromise dominant issue. He is prepared to make a vigorous fight on the floor to this end.

party so as to preclude the possibility of anything on any program of isolation. Its frantic effort to rid itself of the endorsement of these insurgent members is as ludicrous as it will prove futile. They cannot be shaken off. They have the endorsement of their people. No regular or stand-pat Republican could make head against any one of them. They represent a revolt in a region over which the Republican party has long held sway.

The President was at odds with the majority wing with which he is supposed to be sympathetic, on the World Court, the Pension bill, the adjusted compensation bill, and to a greater or less extent, on the Immigration bill. And now to cap the climax, unseemly dissensions rend the party organization charged with the conduct of the campaign about to begin.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am a young married woman of 20 and my husband is the same age. Dolly, we have one child and we have never been housekeeping since we have been married. We are living with his mother, and when he comes home on pay day he hands her his pay envelope and if I want any money I have to ask her for it just like a child. We have to cook, eat and sleep all in one room upstairs, and have been doing this for two years. Dolly, my mother does not need my money, as she has plenty to get along without it and I think it is his place to give his pay envelope to me, or go to housekeeping. What should I do, leave him or not?

WORRIED WIFE.

I don't think it necessary to leave him, if you can prevail upon him to go to housekeeping, or to give you his pay envelope. However you should have had the matter of where you were going to live settled before you married. His mother is probably thinking that since you were married when you got married that it is her duty to keep you "under her wing" and look after you until you are old enough to take care of yourself. She may think that neither of you know how to handle money and that is the reason she is doing it for you. If you would insist, and keep on insisting that you want to go to housekeeping perhaps your husband would do so to keep peace in the family.

Dear Dolly—Do you think it proper for a girl to accept costly presents from a boy she is keeping company with, but not engaged to?

THANK YOU.

It is neither proper nor advisable to accept costly gifts from a man unless you are engaged to him.

Dear Dolly—Will you please tell me what will settle muddy water?

KENTUCKY READER.

A mixture of flour and vinegar or alum will settle muddy water. I take it for granted that you want to settle the water so that you can use it for laundry purposes, as I would not advise you to drink muddy water even after you have settled it.

Dear Dolly—Will you please give me the address of Mary Roberts Richeart?

INQUISITIVE.

I don't know her present address, but you can always reach her by addressing her letters in care of the Saturday Evening Post, Philadelphia, Pa.

SOCIAL NEWS

A pretty June wedding was solemnized in Holy Redeemer church this morning when Miss Helen McAbler was united in marriage to Mr. Paul Reinhardt. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. McQuirk at the church, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McQuirk, 1316 Seventeenth street. The happy couple left on a wedding trip through the East and upon their return will take up their residence at the home of the bride's grandmother on Offshore street.

"Oh Promise Me." The bride, who is a dainty little brunette, was lovely in her wedding gown of white, garnished with trimmed in silk lace, the train being held by her hair by sprays of orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower of bride's roses and sweet peas.

The bride had as her maid Miss Agnes Mittle, who was charmingly gowned in blue, garnished with trimmed in cream silk lace. She wore a picture hat of the same shade and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. The groom's best man was his brother, Mr. Leo Reinhardt.

After a beautifully appointed breakfast served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reinhardt, 1316 Seventeenth street, the happy couple left on a wedding trip through the East and upon their return will take up their residence at the home of the bride's grandmother on Offshore street.

FRENCH WOMAN TELLS HOW TO GET THIN

Without Diets, Abundant Creams, Exercises or Reducing Girdles.

I reduced my own weight 50 pounds in less than 5 weeks, and at the same time improved my general health and appearance with new French discovery called SAN-GRI-NA. To-day I look, feel and act younger than my real age. From the result in my own case, and those of my friends, I am absolutely convinced that any man or woman who uses this new French discovery, will find it a most effective and safe way to get thin. It does away with all the old-fashioned, and often harmful, reducing diets, and instead of starving, you must eat. It is used extensively in Paris, where women of every age pride themselves on keeping their figures slender and graceful, and where the men desire a heavy waist and enjoy the best of health. I have used it for several months, and I have not gained a pound since. I eat all I want and enjoy the best of health. You can do the same. To-day go to any good drug store and ask for a package of SAN-GRI-NA. It is the only thing I ever found to reduce weight and keep it off. Hundreds of different ways and remedies.

San-Gri-NA is now sold at Fisher & Steele's, Stewart's & Stahl's Drug Store—Advertisement.

Mrs. O. R. McClure entertained with a beautiful children's party Tuesday afternoon at her home on High street in celebration of the third birthday anniversary of her charming little daughter, Janet McClure. The little folks made merry during the afternoon hours and at five o'clock they were invited into the dining-room, where they were served with a dainty yellow and white cake. ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

JACK-IN-THE-PULPIT

"That suits me exactly," said a solemn voice.

"Come on," cried Johnny Jump Up, the merry little garden fairy. "Aren't you dressed yet?"

"We'll be there in a minute," said Nancy. "Where are we going tonight, Johnny?"

"I don't think we'll go any place unless we can find the moon," said Johnny. "He seems to be a good deal of a moon." "That's why I picked you twins to hurry—so we can hunt him."

The twins put on the little shoes that Johnny Jump Up gave them and instantly they became as small as pepper corns, if you know how small that is.

Then down they slid to the magic garden.

"Tommy, oh Tommy Timmouse, where are you?" they called.

"All the little violet fairies hunted, and the little Dutchman in the tulip hunted, and the little Scotchman in the blue bells hunted, and the little French fairy in the pansies hunted, and the cowboy fairy and the tiny 'tuck' hunted and everybody hunted. But no one had seen Tommy. Not even the big black beetle knew where he was."

"We can't go on a journey tonight," said Johnny Jump Up. "We'll have to give it up."

"That suits me exactly," said a solemn voice. "Now I'll have a chance to give my lecture."

And looking where the voice came from, everybody was surprised to see Jack-in-the-pulpit standing under his canopy and looking as solemn as a preacher.

"Sit down, everybody," said Jack. "So Nancy and Nick and Johnny Jump Up and all the other garden fairies sat down on the ground to listen.

"My lecture is on the moon," said Jack.

"The moon is round except when it isn't. Sometimes it's just a slice. Sometimes it's right-side up and sometimes it's standing on end."

"The moon shines only at night," went on Jack.

"No it doesn't always," said Nick. "I've often seen it in the day time. If you look hard you can see it right in the blue sky."

"But it doesn't shine. It just shows," said Jack-in-the-pulpit. "There is a big difference. Is I said before—the moon shines only at night. The man in the moon is bald-headed and fat and jolly and—"

"Oh say," said Johnny Jump Up. "Did you hear the verse I made up about him?"

"No," said Jack-in-the-pulpit. "That was his was it," said Johnny. And he recited:

"The man in the moon is so short and so fat. He can't bend over this way or stoop over that. He has not seen his feet since the Fourth of July. But he says that his shape so there's no use to try."

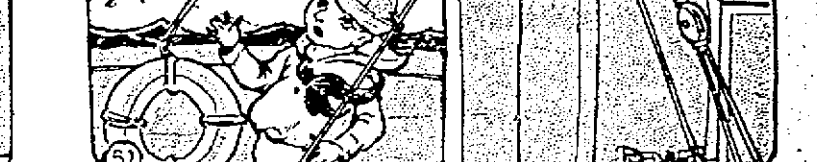

"The lecture is over for tonight," said Jack-in-the-pulpit. "Just then there was a loud snore from the moon. Tommy Timmouse on the pearly white fast asleep."

"Better wake up, Tommy, a cat will get you," said Nick.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES—

In the Frozen North—Chapter 17

"What is all the rush about?" the little adventurer asked the wheelman. "Oh, they're just clearing the deck until the storm blows over." Then he suggested that Jack had best go below, so Jack made his way to the ship kitchen. There he sat on a stool and looked out of a porthole.

In the distance Jack could see another boat. It was being tossed about like a cork on the great waves. It was very interesting to watch, but after an hour or so Jack grew sleepy so he went to his cabin and turned in. Flap crawled to the side of the bunk and also fell asleep.

Early the next morning Jack went out on deck and found that the sea had calmed down and the storm had passed over. The sailing vessel had made very swift progress and was now out of sight of land. Great sea birds swooped down near Jack. They wanted something to eat.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Peter Newhall, August 10, 1885, Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmin, Russian violinist, he had drowned Paul Sarichef, Ishmin's secretary. Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, had urged him to go to South America. He joins his wife in response to a distress signal at sea, giving Larson his sea jacket. Their launch hits rocks. Larson's body is buried as Newhall's. Peter, resented, finds injuries have completely changed his appearance.

Dorothy and Ishmin go to Alaska to return Peter's body. They do not recognize Peter in their head guide. A storm strands them at the grave. "Change name," a message from a seance, telling her to accept Ishmin's marriage proposal. They are married by a native priest. Peter gives them the best wishes. Paul Sarichef appears on the scene.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"You knew I was here. Of course the seance described me, and you guessed who it was?"

"No. You know I wouldn't have come if I'd known that, if I'd known it was you. I don't know why I came—except it was just because I couldn't help it."

"Your vivid eyes opened wide, then the lids dropped again. 'Out with it, man. You've cooked your goose and have done all the damage you can. Is it blackmail? If not, what are you doing here?'"

Sarichef straightened and sighed. "I was living on the other side of the Peninsula. You knew that—and a few nights ago I heard some one call me—some one told me to come here—"

"You've good ears to hear across the Peninsula?"

"I don't expect you to understand," Sarichef returned with some dignity. "In trying to tell you—just how it was. A few nights ago I got the idea that some one wanted me—how—just some one calling me. It came just some one as an actual voice. I tried to turn away and disregard it, but somehow I couldn't. Paul Sarichef, Paul Sarichef, the voice kept crying—and it told me to come here, to this very spot. You know how a man obeys a hunch. That's what it was, I guess—a hunch—but I couldn't disregard it."

The grim smile flickered at Ivan's mouth again. "How many nights ago was this?"

"Four nights ago. I started the next morning, and halfway across I met old Sindy, with her back loaded with grub. She told me there were people here, needing help, and I offered to carry her pack on over and let her go back."

"Four nights ago? Thank heaven and me, the girl's fixed, startled gaze. 'Dorothy, do you remember what happened four nights ago?'"

"The seance!" the girl answered dully.

"The seance! You haven't forgotten, have you, that you asked to speak to Paul Sarichef—and that Fortune Joe called him? You remember how all of us felt the tension as he broadcasted the silent call? Sarichef was not in the spirit world, but he answered just the same. He came, and he doesn't know why. Was it hypnotism or some other occult thing, or was it just black-mail—who can say?"

But the wonder of this mystery, could you hang obscure the real issues that faced this baffled trio in the fire's glow. They stood silent, as if listening to the sea and the wind, but their thoughts moved in sweeping circles. The two packers, curious but wholly failing to understand, moved and rustled in the darkness like wild beasts; and enveloped in a deep, strange calm that was reflected in his immobile face and quiet eyes, Ivan watched the slow unfolding of the drama.

CHAPTER XIX.
The "Dead" Has Risen.

Ivan turned abruptly from Sarichef, and smiling faintly in appeal, stepped in front of Dorothy. Her wide-open eyes fixed on his thin, stark-white face; but her expression did not change, and

SELF POISONING
TODAY'S DANGER

Hurried and improper eating, nervous worry and lack of abdominal exercise—clog up your system and overburden your liver. The result is self poisoning. No longer can your liver do its work properly and the result is put wake up dull and tired, coated tongue, bad taste, and offensive breath. Often you suffer from loss of appetite, bad digestion, gas on a seat, weak stomach, improper movement of the bowels and a run-down condition of your whole system.

Because and tone your liver. Put your system in condition. Feel your liver again. Try just a spoonful of Dr. Thayer's Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals and see the quick improvement in the way you eat, sleep and feel—the return of strength, vigor and energy. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise there will be no cost. Dr. Thayer's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Flood & Bock and The Service Drug Company, in Portsmouth, Bourgethizer's Store, 242 Harding Avenue in Portsmouth—Advertisement.

you can wonder at my answer. When I get home I will tell the whole truth and try to clear Peter's name, and take the snarl out of his memory."

At this point she paused, faltering; and for one brief instant she did not know the cause of the sudden wind of terror that blew through her being, closing her throat and choking back her brave words. In that instant Ivan's attitude had changed. Outwardly there was little sign; possibly certain lines deepened on his white face and his vivid eyes looked dull, like glowing, dying coals, under his fine brows. A wan smile, determined rather than cruel, curled at his lips.

It was not that he had misunderstood her words. He was not such a fool as to think this merely a burst of temporary indignation, soon to pass away. Dorothy had meant exactly what she said. Yet her opposition only made her more desirable to him, heightened the fire of his madness. The strong arms went about her, and he pressed his lips to hers.

Pavel, who watched from the mouth of the dugout, granted softly, as if in reflection of his master's passion. Peter made one uneasy move in the shadows, but he was not yet sure of this course, and preparations were not yet complete, so he paused, waiting for some night breeze, Dorothy struggled in a sudden frenzy of hate and scorn, as if the kiss had ravished her integrity. For a single instant Ivan held her helpless—just long enough to show her he was her master—then he let her go.

"Oh!" she breathed. "You wouldn't dare!"

She halted because she was afraid to go on. Ivan was fully awakened now. He was shaking off the last vestiges of his conventionality as a dog shakes off water, and with it went the veneer that western civilization had bestowed upon him. This rock-ribbed waste of barrenness beside the sea had always possessed a deep, stirring appeal for him, and now he yielded to it as never before.

He called to his deeply hidden primitive side, and what was left him, there in the weird firelight, was altogether Asia. The racial differences she had seen in him had been vague and of not great importance before; but now they estranged her, and terrified her.

"Every man does wicked deeds, only most of them don't get caught. Many and many a man wants to do wicked deeds that he doesn't care to do—because his ends. Other men have loved you, and have wished desperately that they would die and leave you free—but they haven't loved you enough—they didn't have the courage to make their wish come true. You know your Christian teachings—that there is no distinction drawn between him who wants to do evil and him who really does it. The thing I did many men would have been glad to do, if they had dared to take the risk."

He paused, and the girl started to turn away. Ivan held her gently, his hands at her arms—just below her shoulders. "I don't want to talk about it," she told him.

"But you must hear me, Dorothy. I wanted you, and I had to have you. I loved you enough to risk my reputation, to do evil to a respected friend, in order to win you. Don't you realize that this showed a love of which your Anglo-Saxon men would be wholly incapable? Poor Peter was the victim—but he has gone now, and you must seek your happiness in me, your husband!"

"My husband!" the girl echoed, as if the thought were incredible to her. "Yes, You are my wife. You don't owe any more loyalty to Peter—only to me. When you married me you took me for better or worse—and that means you take my past crimes on your head. You share everything with me, and that means you share my past, too. It will go hard at first, and you will be bitter; but I want you to put it out of your mind. You've got to be my partner now, even in my evil deeds. Dorothy, I want you to respect, rather than scorn that quality of unconquerable purpose in me that won't let me forego the things that I want; and particularly I want you to remember that it was all for you. The thing is closed and done, part of the dead past; and I want you to put it out of your mind."

The girl straightened and sighed. "I wish you'd go away," she said dully. "I can't forget it, and never can, and I can't forgive it. Everything is over between us. Now let me go—I'm going into my tent."

DRY-OFFICERS HOLD GARDEN PARTY TO DIG UP HIDDEN MOONSHINE

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., June 25.—"Mary, Mary, quite contrary—how does your garden grow?" In Mrs. Lillian Johnson's garden here grew beans and corn and four long straight rows of cabbages—and over in the corner went the fence was a row of mint such as was once used for flavoring things. But listen, you ain't heard nothin' yet. Between the cabbages there grew, at any rate, there was planted at regular intervals, in long straight rows, gullweed, a deadly poison of 100 proof moonshine liquor, commonly style.

The prohibition agents dug and dug in the garden out near Daniels Fork, four miles from Ashland, this morning until they had unearthed 121 of the confederate gullweed. Twenty barrels of moonshine, all ready to "go" was also found in the woods nearby. There was some doubt about the ownership—but Mrs. Johnson, Jascon Faunin and Arthur McReynolds were arrested, all giving bond for their appearances in federal court.

Officials participating in the morning garden party were: J. M. Miller, R. Lee Stewart, D. D. Miller, Sheriff Robert Clark, George Nicholson, A. W. Burchett, C. G. Asile.

Lieut. Maughan Feeling Fine After Flight

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, dawn-to-dusk coast-to-coast aviator, declared today that with a good night's sleep behind him, he was feeling fine after his record-breaking trip yesterday.

His flight, which began at Mitchell Field, N. Y., at daybreak and ended at Grissy Field here just after twilight, establishing the new record of 21 hours, 47 minutes and 45 seconds, left the aviator with no ill-effects. Although he accomplished the feat alone, handicapped by an air sickness he got up today saying he felt fine.

Lieutenant Maughan for several days will be the guest of Lieutenant Col. W. D. Gilmore, aviation officer of the Ninth Corps Area. He attended a luncheon today given in his honor by the American Legion. Tonight he appeared at a banquet of the Army and Navy club.

Lieutenant Maughan said that he expects to fly back, making the trip by easy stages and stopping perhaps in Washington for a time.

General Sawyer Quits As Personal Physician To President Coolidge

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer today resigned as personal physician to the president. Action was taken, it was explained, so that he could return to Marion, O., devote his attention to the Harding Memorial association. The resignation was accepted by President Coolidge.

Lieutenant Commander Boone of the navy, who has been assistant personal physician to President Coolidge is expected to take over the duties of Gen. Sawyer. The latter, however, will continue as co-ordinator of the federal board of hospitalization.

General Sawyer was physician to Warren G. Harding before the latter became president and was made personal physician when the latter entered the White House. He was continued in that office by President Coolidge.

Tornado In Lucas County Plays Havoc

TOLEDO, June 25.—A tornado, racing across the northern part of Lucas county last night, partly wrecked a number of houses, twisted barns and other outbuildings into masses of splinters, uprooted scores of trees and played havoc with telephone and telegraph wires.

White Flour, Sugar Caused More Deaths Than Liquor, He Avers

CLEVELAND, June 25.—More deaths have been caused by white flour and white sugar than whiskey in 50 years, Dr. John P. Sutherland, dean emeritus of Boston University school of medicine, declared today at the annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy.

He also stated that "the egg of a chicken isn't fit to eat," adding that there isn't enough stuff in the egg to make a first class brain cell."

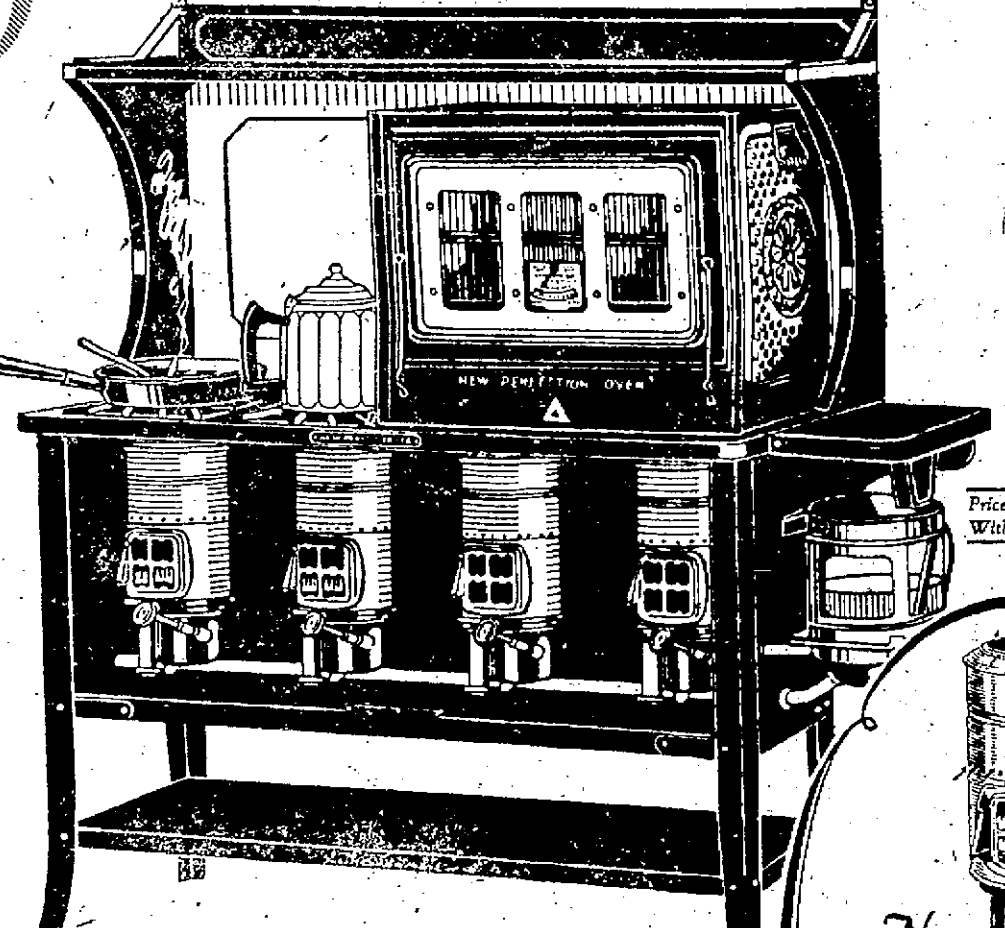

A plea to save women from midwives was made by Dr. R. S. Paris, Richmond, Va. "Women who can afford to pay, seek physician services while charity patients are used in clinics," he said, "to help receive our obstetrical education," he said, but there are many not belonging to either class still in the hands of midwives "whose superstition is dangerous and does nothing to encourage health after the birth of the child."

Van Swearingens To Acquire Control Of Erie System, Report

NEW YORK, June 25.—Negotiations gradually are approaching completion whereby the Van Swearingens interests of Cleveland, through purchases of stock, will acquire complete control of the Erie Railroad and eventually consolidate with the Chesapeake and Ohio, and the Nickel Plate, into a mammoth 10,000 mile system, it was reported in the financial district of New York.

Bankers for the Van Swearingens withheld comment on the reported transaction, which they carried through would result in one of the most important consolidations in years. Formation of the proposed system, it was said, would require several years and would probably involve acquisition of the Pere Marquette, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Virginian Railroads.

WILL GIVE LESSONS TO LOCAL BLIND PEOPLE
 Miss Clara M. Peterson, home teacher of the Ohio State Commission for the Blind, Columbus, was in the city yesterday visiting a number of blind people who are being cared for by the Bureau of Community Service.

While here she made arrangements with Miss Blanche Lowe, director of the Bureau, to give these people a series of lessons in sewing and reading.

Found Asleep At His Desk

Smith had just returned from lunch and was working on an important report, which the manager desired by 3 o'clock. Suddenly there came over him a peculiar drowsiness that seemed to paralyze his brain. He fell into a deep sleep, awakening some time later to find his employer standing at his side. A great many people, especially those who do mental work, are subject to these drowsy spells in the afternoon. The condition often results from gas in the stomach, pressure from which restricts circulation and sometimes disturbs the heart action. Such an annoyance can easily be avoided by taking Epsa Gas Tablets before and after meals. If taken during a spell, they will liberate the pent-up gas and usually give quick relief from all distressing symptoms. Epsa Gas Tablets are pleasant and harmless—very beneficial to the stomach. Sold in Portsmouth by Fisher & Stretch Pharmacy and other good stores. Epsa, San Francisco—Advertisement.

Harrison

 tain while no effort was made to induce Albert B. Fall, that doubt, too, has been removed.

Points To Corruption In Government of Republicans

Corruption in the government under the Republican regime and a challenge to anyone to point to a single case of corruption by any high official or member of Congress of Democratic affiliation may be said to be the basis of Senator Harrison's whole appeal. Whatever Mr. McAdoo did in his relations of favor to client happened after he left public office. The Mississippi Senator takes credit for the Democratic party for the exposure of Albert B. Fall's record as Secretary of the Interior and the driving out of office of the Secretary of the Navy, and the Attorney General. He asks the Republican party to look up what the Republic in connection with the Democratic administration during the war.

Apart from the Teapot Dome scandal, which is not to be allowed to slumber, Senator Harrison reveals the plan of the party leaders to use political capital out of the Mellon tax plan. They welcome the plea of President Coolidge for the Mellon plan and utilize again the argument that more tax-payers are benefited under the Democratic plan, furnished by Senator Simmons of North Carolina and Representative Garner of Texas than would have been the case had the Mellon plan been adopted.

Mostly it was an old-fashioned political speech with all sorts of danger thrown in the hope of diverting the Republican party. Constant references to the fact that Senator Borah refused to join Coolidge as a running mate, and to the effort at Cleveland to punish the friends of the soldier bonus were not omitted by Senator Harrison, who showed himself a master of Catalinian satire.

Made Eloquent Appeal To Have Party Harmony
 Candidates have been for the moment forgotten. Sensitive to the inner currents of the convention and the menace of possible friction because of the factional differences that have arisen, Senator Harrison made a plea for party harmony. His eulogy of Woodrow Wilson was in itself an appeal for a reunion of all elements in the party. In a common cause. "It would seem now," he concluded, "we can hear the soft voice of sweet reasonableness coming to us from Monticello, the voice of Old Hickory coming across the Blue from the Hermitage and from that historic crypt at St. Albans we hear the mighty voice of Woodrow Wilson, wisely calling to us: 'To you from falling hands I throw the torch. Hold it high. Hold it high. Carry on; carry on; keep the faith; keep the faith.'"

Ohio Republicans

 Charles G. Dawes as the party's standard-bearer. President Harding was eulogized and his death lamented.

In bringing the convention to a close at 11 o'clock, Chairman Gilbert Bettmann, of Cincinnati, praised the platform which it had adopted and pleaded for party solidarity and loyalty. "This is a Republican year and an easy year," he said. "It is a particularly easy year in Ohio, because Ohio is at the bottom a Republican state. We in this hall hold the power to keep it such. If we go back to our countries with the conviction we can win, we will win. We must show the Republicans of the nation that Ohio always is Republican."

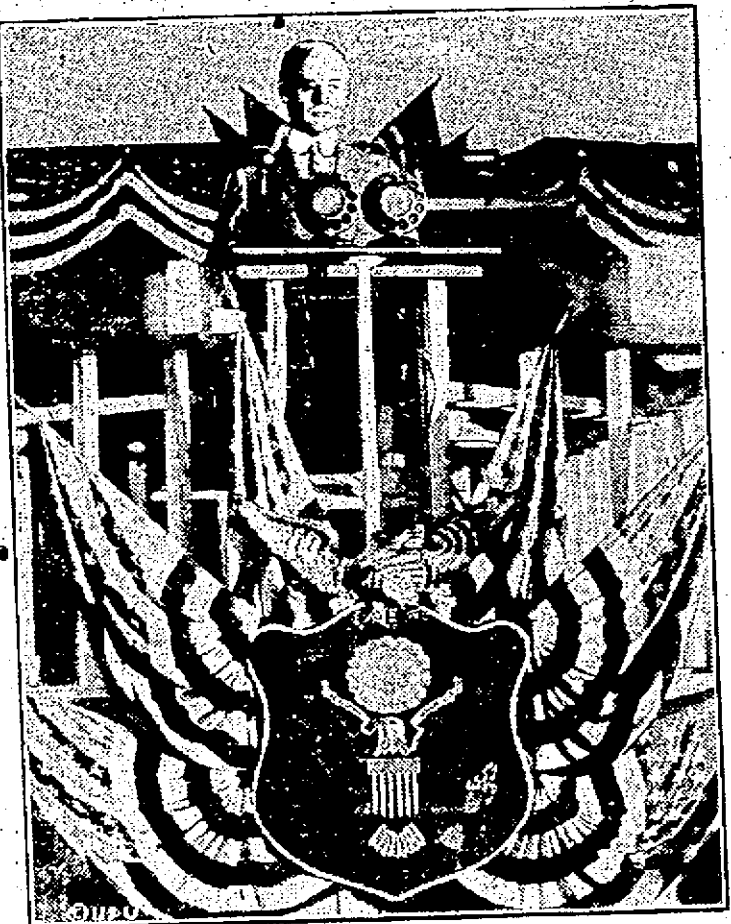

Other Plans In Platform
 Ratification of the Federal child labor amendment.
 Functioning of the Blue Sky Law in the interests of the people.

Disapproval of the removal of Mrs. Mae Stannard as matron of the Girls' Industrial School.
 Guarantee of civil, political and religious liberties as guaranteed by the constitution.
 Disapproval of mob violence and urging enactment of a federal anti-lynching law.
 Increased facilities for care of feeble-minded.

Impartial administration of the merit system in civil service.
 Representation of women on the central and executive committees both state and county.
 Restoration of the fish and game department to the system under which it was operated from its inception to the advent of the present administration.
 Further reduction of special assessments on abutting property for road construction. Declaration of faith in the eight hour day, endorsement of collective bargaining and a fair and equal wage for both men and women.
 Further broadening of the benefits of the workmen's compensation law, especially broadening the scope of the occupational disease provisions.
 County jail prisoners be fed at actual cost, but in no case for the cost to exceed the present maximum.
 Support for any and all legitimate means of aiding the farmer.
 Creation of a federal rears industrial commission as recommended by President Coolidge.
 Continuance of the Davis Reorganization Code.

SMITH CLAIMS FIVE MEN CHANCES OF MISSING DUE NOMINATION TO BLAST ON ARE GROWING STEAMSHIP

BY PERCY E. SCOTT
 (United Press Staff Correspondent)
 NEW YORK, June 25.—Chances of Governor Alfred E. Smith to capture the Democratic presidential nomination tomorrow today to the highest yet, his managers claim.
 Smith is said to have been informed by such leaders as Tom Taggart, George Brummen and Ed Moore that if in the early balloting for candidates he shows sufficient strength to warrant the belief that he can win, they will get behind him. Until today Brummen was the only one of these three leaders to openly support Smith.
 Taggart and Moore have not yet come into the open, but the governor has received assurances of their support.

Heavy Fines Paid By Convicted Men

ST. PAUL, June 25.—(By the Associated Press).—Fines totalling $49,000 and a check for $148,000 representing taxes due, were paid to the Federal government yesterday by three officials of Brown and Bigelow, St. Paul, specialty manufacturers, who pleaded guilty in federal court to charges of defrauding the government of income taxes.
 H. H. Bigelow, head of the firm, paid a $10,000 fine. In addition he was sentenced to serve two years at the federal prison at Leavenworth, with a stay of sentence granted until November. William F. Preater, comptroller, Robert Galkowsky, secretary and treasurer, and the corporation were fined $10,000 each.

Terrific Rain Hits Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., June 25.—(By the Associated Press).—One man was nearly drowned, thousands of automobiles and car riders were temporarily stranded, trees were uprooted and buildings in many sections flooded during a heavy rain storm early today.
 The man, driving an automobile, plunged into a pool of water fifteen feet deep formed by the rain. Unconscious, he was rescued by workers from nearby plants and city firemen and taken to a hospital.
 City and suburban street employees, emergency crews of the Cleveland Railway Company and scores of police and firemen were called out to open clogged sewers and culverts.

 Prepare of your drugstore a five pack- age of Rocky Devils Quinine P. D. Q. then you will have the chemical made expressly to rid hotels, hospitals and dwellings of pesky bedbugs and other insects.
 Impossible for the pesky devils to exist with the proper use of P. D. Q. P. D. Q. can be purchased in sealed bottles, double strength thistle form. Sold by F. F. Davis Drug Co., Kelson Drug Co., New Boston.—Advertisement.

Can YOU Buy "too much satisfaction"

A SMITH Smart Shoe customer told us recently that he couldn't seem to wear a pair out. We said that perhaps they were made too conscientiously; that he might be as well satisfied if they weren't so long-lived.
 To which he replied, "You can't sell a man too much satisfaction for your own good."

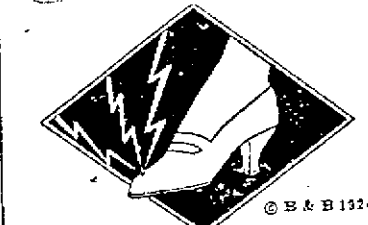

We fully agree with him, and we'll never want other than the present standard, maintained in the planning and building of

Rod And Wire Team Cops Game

The Time Office and Rod and Wire baseball teams of the Wheeling Steel Corporation clashed in a seven inning battle at Millbrook Tuesday evening at 4:30 p. m.

The Rod and Wire team came out on top by the score of 14 to 10. The game was hotly contested throughout the whole seven innings. The Time Office rallied for six runs in the last of the seventh, but could not overcome the lead made by the Rod and Wire outfit in the early stages of the game. Score by innings:

Rod and Wire . . . 260 033 0-14 16 4
Time Office . . . 021 100 6-10 12 3

Local Grotto Prophets Make Hit At Convention

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., June 25—Portsmouth Prophets, from the smallest to Judge Baesman, have created quite a stir in this city, which is entertaining the national Grotto convention. In fact, when our drum major, Mr. Baesman, pilots the crack band down the streets, he is the cynosure of all eyes and has caused quite a fluttering around the heart strings of many a fair maiden. If we only had "Minnie" with us, we would sweep everything before us. As it is we are making a distinct hit, and if some of the leading citizens of the good old town were here they would know first hand that the Portsmouth contingent have put the Peerless City on the map.

Only the prophets and their wives who are here can appreciate what a ten strike we made when we decided to charter the Pullman cars for sleeping purposes. The cars have been rigged up with electric fans and we really have the coolest place in the city in which to woo Morphems. But at that we haven't had any too much time for sleep. There is something doing every minute—it's a whole of a convention and wherever you look you see the black fez with its cardinal tassel. The women are having the time of their young lives. It seems as though the Indianapolis prophets have vied with each other in caring for the women of the party and they are being whirled about until they are dizzy. The Portsmouth women were taken in hand by a dozen guides today and shown through the big monument, that is perhaps, one of the finest pieces of art work in the entire country. A theatre party is on for tonight, and the women are expecting a rare treat.

All in all, everything is surpassing expectations. We are glad we came to the affair with will and tonight. We expect to have enough to talk about for a month at least when we get home. We expect to board the rattlers on Wednesday night and be in Portsmouth in plenty of time for an early breakfast Thursday.

Every one in the party is well—although we feared the heat would get Ollie Manley while we were marching today. Ollie's legs are about as long as those of a mallard duck, and they have something to hold up, but he made port in ship shape and believes he is now on edge to assist the patrol in winning a prize. Our band, all joking laid aside, is the class of all similar musical organizations here and if it does win high honors, leader Arthur Bode expects to leap from the top of the monument—either that or lead a grand assault on the judges. George Zottmann will lead the charge with his bass drum sticks and will stand as hard as Firpo landed on Dempsey.

When it comes to knowing people, I thought I was some "knower" but ex-Monarch W. P. Zottmann has me cheated forty ways from the neck. Prophet Bill was shaking hands all day with the Montana delegation as calling all the western prophets by their first name. He howled me over when he asked one how his wife and six children were. They live out on a ranch and Bill had their pedigree at his tongue's end—my, what a small place this old world really is.

Curey D. Williams, captain of the patrol, lost his voice this morning and will be unable to broadcast his men won first place in the competitive drill. If we only had Dave Chevrolet here to take his place, all would be well.

Dr. Horst Promoted

Local friends of Dr. George P. Horst, former pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, will be interested to learn of his promotion to the position of Divisional Secretary of the South and Southwest District of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Horst, who has been engaged in the work of Field Secretary of Men's Work of the Presbyterian Church for the Western District with offices in Chicago, Ill., will take up his new duties September 1, with offices in the Arcade Building, St. Louis, Mo.

Women A Bundle Of Nerves

"Everything irritates me. I am a bundle of nerves. I ache all over and cannot sleep and am so despondent." This expression is another description of the condition of many women who suffer from feminine ailments. Nothing will relieve this distressing condition so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs. For fifty years it has been resting silk and ailing women of America to health and strength.—Advertisement.

Candidates Confident As Balloting On Nominee Nears

NEW YORK, June 22.—A survey of the various camps along "Boon Row" today, shows that supporters of the leading candidates—McAdoo and Smith—are equally confident that the nomination will drop their way.

On the other hand, at headquarters of less pretentious candidates there is an air of confidence that the convention is not going to accept either McAdoo or Smith, and in the scramble the party plan cannot fail to hit the particular candidate they are backing.

Here is the final word from the various headquarters:

McADOO—Remaining away from Madison Square Garden as he intends to do throughout the Democratic convention, William G. McAdoo continued conferences today in his hotel suite with various party leaders and his political lieutenants. Callers included William Jennings Bryan, Senator Walsh, Montana and Governor Morrison, North Carolina.

Late in the day, at his first conference with newspapermen since Saturday, Mr. McAdoo declared that he and his associates felt "very confident of the outcome here—certainly the progress we are making as reported by our friends could not be more encouraging."

GOVERNOR SMITH—Governor Smith himself went swimming at a nearby beach and Franklin D. Roosevelt, his campaign manager, went to his residence from the convention meeting to prepare for the reception there tonight for the up-state delegates.

Mr. Roosevelt declared the New York governor was gaining strength from his "unexpected success" and incoming reports from the outside workers, "were highly encouraging."

Adherents of John W. Davis for the Democratic presidential nomination persisted tonight in their policy of silence, so far as authorizing for publication claims of gains in strength for their man. Privately, however, it was easy to cite them to confident statements con-

GOVERNOR SILZER.

Inability of any of the "present contenders" to win the Democratic presidential nomination was declared inevitable because of the two-thirds vote rule of the convention, in a statement issued tonight by Frank Hague, New Jersey national committeeman and manager of the campaign launched by the delegates from that state, in behalf of Governor George Silzer.

GLASS.

Headquarters of Senator Carter Glass were established on "Boon Row" with the other candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination today and the action was followed by a flood of statements in behalf of the Virginian.

Mr. Glass so far as was disclosed participated in no wise in the activities in his behalf, the movement being headed by his friends.

Court House

Seeks Annulment of Court Order

Motion to redocket the case of Mrs. Stockham against Russell Stockham and to change or annul the former order of the court in the case was filed by the defendant, through Attorney E. G. Miller in Common Pleas court, Wednesday.

Stockham in his motion advances three reasons why the former order of the court should be modified, namely, that the court really found the issues in the case in his favor, but granted the divorce to the plaintiff for reasons of public policy and plaintiff was therefore not entitled to alimony; attorney was given to plaintiff at the time for the reason that she was not and had not been employed and had no means of earning a livelihood, but since said time plaintiff has become well able to support herself; that defendant is heavily in debt and with his present income has found himself unable to reduce his indebtedness and at the same time maintain his children in the manner in which they are entitled to be maintained.

The former Mrs. Stockham is said to be conducting a millinery store in Cleveland.

Monk Sets Up Claim

Russell J. Monk for his set-off to the claim set forth by plaintiff in the suit of Charles W. G. Hannah against Russell J. Monk and others, seeks judgment for $10,841 which he claims represents a balance due under contracts for installing plumbing, constructing a sewer and for labor and material for Hannah. Monk, who is represented by Attorneys Bannan & Bannan asks that his claim be set-off against Hannah's claim, and that he be awarded judgment for the difference.

Eleventh St. Woman Is Surprised At Result Of Taking Pepgen

Another warm friend for Pepgen has been found in Mrs. Fred Kall, of 124 Eleventh street, said Mr. Streich, head of the Fisher & Streich Pharmacy, where this medicine is being extensively introduced.

"One bottle of Pepgen made me feel fine," said Mrs. Kall, while discussing with some friends her recent discovery from her illness.

"I suffered dreadfully," she continued, "from nervous headaches and stomach trouble. If I became the least bit excited the headaches would appear and I would suffer for days. I was unable to sleep much and had very little appetite. The food that I did not disagree with me and made me feel miserable."

"I heard Pepgen spoken of so well by friends who had been benefited by it that I decided to give the medicine a trial."

"I had taken so many medicines that I was beginning to lose confidence in all. After the first two or three doses I began improving. My appetite reappeared and I slept better. I felt refreshed in the morning, and the nervous feeling vanished. I am now contented with pains in my stomach and can eat any kind of food with relish and with no fear of bad after effects. Truly, Pepgen has done me a world of good.

"Pepgen is accomplishing all that I claimed it would," said J. E. Young, who is personally directing the sale of preparation at Fisher & Streich's Pharmacy, cor. Sixth and Chillicothe streets. The people of Portsmouth now realize that Pepgen is an excellent remedy for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal and biliary troubles, nervousness, rheumatism, debility, general run-down condition, loss of appetite and kindred ailments.

CAUTION: The genuine Pepgen is packed in a white and blue carton and may be obtained in Portsmouth only at Fisher & Streich's pharmacy, Sixth and Chillicothe streets; Kelo Pharmacy, New Boston. There is a Pepgen store in every nearby town.—Advertisement.

PIKETON

The recent Republican convention in Cleveland will never be forgotten by at least one person who attended it, and that important person is Little Virginia Moore Patterson, daughter of Senator and Mrs. C. K. Patterson, of Piketon.

This winsome little girl was noticed at the convention by Senator Willis, who picked her up in his arms and held her high so she could see the crowds that were thronging the streets. A cartoonist on the Cincinnati Post was on the lookout for just such "human interest" happenings as that and in a subsequent issue of the Post there was a picture of Virginia Moore and Senator Willis. Needless to say the picture will be one of her favorites.

41 Prisoners Tunnel

Way To Freedom

MEMPHIS, TENN., June 25.—(By the Associated Press.)—Forty-one prisoners tunneled their way from the Shelby county jail last night, four were captured during the night and the others were seeking the others early today.

Sheriff W. S. Knight said the wholesale delivery was engineered by H. Diggs Nolen, who is under sentences aggregating 10 years in the state and federal penitentiaries for forgery and violation of the federal anti-narcotic law.

The prisoners escaped by digging a hole in a three foot brick wall, using pieces of an iron cut and a table knife and fork.

SOCIETY

Last but not least, was the conclusion of opinion Tuesday evening when the last meeting of the Young People's Missionary Society of Chillicothe church was held at the hospitable home of Mrs. Pearl E. Selby on Timmonds avenue. The next meeting which will open the new year will be held the first Tuesday in September. The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion and despite the warm evening, the meeting was unusually well attended. After a song by the members, Miss Ida Mercer led the devotionals and Mrs. Frank Devoe gave a report on absent members. The treasurer's report by Mrs. Sam Wise showed that the society was in a splendid financial condition at the close of the year. Several sunny letters were then read by Miss Emma Johnston. A report of the condition of the Christmas Club money was given by Miss Norma McNeal after which the following officers for the new year were elected:

President—Mrs. Lloyd T. Henderson.

First Vice President—Miss Caroline Mackey.

Second Vice President—Miss Myrtle Foster.

Third Vice President—Miss Florence Peterson.

Secretary—Mrs. E. W. Lewis.

Corresponding Secretary—Miss Emma Johnston.

Treasurer—Mrs. Sam Wise.

Mite Box Committee—Mrs. Frank Devoe.

Christmas Club—Miss Norma McNeal.

Press Committee—Mrs. O. W. Peed.

After the election of officers Miss Caroline Mackey gave an informal talk on her trip to Jerusalem. She supplemented her talk with many interesting curios and souvenirs which she brought home with her. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Selby was assisted by her two charming daughters, Misses Gladys and Mary Louise Selby and the members of the choir in serving a delicious ice course.

Day And Night

Air Mail Service Especially For Business Planned

CHICAGO, June 25.—(By the Associated Press.)—Day and night transcontinental air mail services scheduled to start July 1, will mark the world's first comprehensive effort to present aviation as a business service, said Colonel Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general outlining plans here.

Next Tuesday at 6 a. m. Pacific time, one plane will leave San Francisco and at 10 a. m., eastern time, another will leave New York on the 2,000 mile route of the Trans-Continental air mail, the scheduled time west bound is 34 hours, 45 minutes and east bound 32 hours, 45 minutes.

More than half the distance will be illuminated by night flying. The night flight area is divided into three sections: Cleveland to Chicago, Chicago to Cheyenne and Cheyenne to Rock Springs, Wyo. Only the eastern section will be lighted during the summer.

The line has been divided into three postal zones, New York-Chicago, Chicago-Cheyenne and Cheyenne-San Francisco, with rates of eight cents per ounce or fraction for each zone or part thereof. Letters may be mailed anywhere in the country at the new rate air mail junction point. Air mail postage will suffice even though correspondence originates and terminates off the air mail line.

Tri-colored red, white and blue letters will be installed along the route signifying the special services. Others are being installed in important cities of the route where arrangements have been made for quick transmission of mail to junction points for transfer to air plane.

First Photo Of Convention

Here is the first photograph of the Democratic Convention in New York, relayed here by speeding auto, airplane and train by NEA Service Inc. No expense was spared to speed the picture. Thousands of flags and yards of bunting turned Madison Square Garden into a riot of color matched only by the tumult of delegates. While late in getting started, the hall filled rapidly as Cordell Hull banged the gavel which officially opened the convention.

Chief Returns Money To Chandler; Incident Closed

When Chief of Police Rome Arthur was asked Wednesday if the report were true that he had returned the $2 forfeit money City Auditor Earl Chandler put up when he was recently accused of violating the traffic laws he said: "Yes, I gave it to him to keep his mouth shut and to keep my own pocket," the Chief said. "The city received the money and Mr. Chandler has his receipt, so I consider the incident closed."

"When Mr. Chandler was asked today if he had received the $2 he stated that he had and that Chief Arthur gave it to him in person."

Several days ago Chandler claims he packed his machine on the side of the First National bank building and when it was moved during market a traffic officer tugged his ear and he was cited to appear at the mayor's office and put up a $2 bond for his appearance in court.

"My case was never called and the first thing I knew Chief Arthur returned my money to me. I had intended to fight my case to the end as my car was parked in a proper place and was moved without my knowledge," Mr. Chandler said today.

Mr. Kimble Resigns From Library Board

Attorney R. F. Kimble's resignation from the Board of Library Trustees was made public in the following letter to the mayor of the city:

"To the Hon. Ralph Calvert, Mayor: "My dear Mayor: "I am hereby tendering my resignation as trustee of the public library of this city to become effective at once. I regret the necessity of this step but pressing business matters make it impossible for me to give to the library the attention it ought to have, and I feel that I should step aside and let someone have charge who has the time to render to the public the service the public has a right to demand."

"Yours very sincerely, B. F. KIMBLE."

Boosters Complete Plans For Trip Tomorrow

Portsmouth Boosters will again get busy Thursday afternoon, when they leave on their second booster tour for McDermott, Crabtree, Otway and after making a short tour of the city they will leave for McDermott, Garden. They will leave Tracy park tomorrow afternoon at 12:45 o'clock first stop. At least 300 boosters are expected to go along in machines bearing large signs with the slogan, "Portsmouth Is a Good Town. Come and See Us."

After the tour the Boosters will come home by the way of Jasper and will stop at the Wilson place for a chicken dinner, to be served for $1.25 per plate. All who wish to have their dinner on the trip should get a ticket from one of the committee in charge. Tickets for the dinner will be printed and may be obtained any time between now and the time the caravan of motor cars leave the park. The 12-piece Selby Band will again furnish music. Irene Stone will entertain at the various stops, and arrangements have been made to have a quartet sing. Pete Landman, the well-known organ player at the Columbia, is writing a number of parodies of popular songs, to be sung on the trip.

Final Tribute Paid To Walter Koegele

Close to 100 ex-service men, the majority of them members of James Dickey Post, No. 23 American Legion attended the funeral services held Wednesday morning for Walter Koegele, vice-commander of American Legion, who died Sunday at his home, 1320 Lincoln street. The last rites were conducted from the home of the parents Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Koegele, 1320 Lincoln street at ten o'clock. Rev. W. H. Phelps of Second Presbyterian church being in charge.

The pallbearers were Harold Clayton, Maurice Cooper, Richard Pratt, Frank Ferguson, Carl Smith and Sam Frowlee. As the casket was removed from the home it was placed on a caisson furnished by Battery B. of the 134th Field Artillery. Following the caisson and casket was a riderless horse with sword.

Chaplain W. H. Gleiser of the Legion was in charge of the service in the mausoleum. Attorney Russell McCurdy was in charge of a firing squad and taps were sounded by Bugler Everett Hubert. Color guards were also from the Legion. The floral tributes were many and beautiful testifying to the high esteem in which Mr. Koegele was held. Members of the Board of Education and many school teachers attended the last rites. Mr. Koegele was popular as superintendent of school buildings.

Tells What Republicans Did At Convention

While the Democrats are sweltering in Madison Square Garden, New York City, in attendance at their great national convention, which will nominate candidates to oppose the Republican nominees, Koegele and Dawes, the Kiwanis club members were gathered in their hall above the Mary Louise Wednesday noon, listening to the highlights of the recent Republican National Convention as given by Hon. Henry T. Bannan, a national delegate from this congressional district.

Mr. Bannan, who was chuck full of wit, was extremely gracious in his remarks, for only two or three times did he allow his Republicanism to get beyond the danger line. His report was an unusually interesting one and judging from Mr. Bannan's many activities while in Cleveland, he had precious little time that he could really call his own.

The club is under great obligation to Mr. Bannan for his splendid speech. He stated at the outset that he appreciated the great honor the Republicans of this district had conferred on him in selecting him as a delegate. He stated he had done his duty as he saw it and had no apologies to make. Mr. Bannan, however, did take time to land a blow against the primary system, but while, as he said, it was a farce, he believed it would still remain the law of the land.

Penny Well Known Here

Ora C. Penny, who was arrested in Newport, Ky., yesterday after he attempted to help up a Kroger store in a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. John Ode of 627 Seventh street. Penny left last Thursday with $135 and it is presumed that he lost his roll on the "Lotto" in races. He had been working for his father-in-law, a well known N. & W. bridge foreman. His wife, Mrs. Anna Lee and ten months old son, Eugene are living at 627 Seventh street. "We had intended to go to house-keeping in Newport as my husband expected to secure work there," Mrs. Penny said today.

Dan Jarrell, arrested last Saturday in a raid on the place at 1021 Chillicothe street which it is alleged he conducts, faces a charge of perjury as a result of statements he is alleged to have made during his trial yesterday afternoon in Municipal court, on a charge of possessing.

Homecoming At Greenup

GREENUP, Ky., June 25.—(United Press.)—After 24 hours of strenuous effort on the part of George White of Marietta, and E. L. Moore of Cleveland, more Ohioans succeeded in getting into Madison Square Garden today than were able to get in yesterday. Moore and White garnered a few more tickets, but still there were scores of Ohioans who came to see the convention and the Ohio delegation unanimously that the Buckeyes were cheated out of their share of tickets and the lament is being widely discussed.

Without crossing a "T" or dotting an "i" Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, today presented to the resolutions committee the anti-Klan plank proposed by Ed. H. Moore and adopted unanimously by the Ohio delegation. It terms the Klan a "pernicious menace to the perpetuity of American institutions."

Berry was then placed on the stand and when he denied that he contemplated purchase of the place had gone beyond the negotiation stage. Attorney T. G. Beatty, representing Jarrell, withdrew from the case. Returning at the request of the defendant, he asked Jarrell to change his plea on the liquor charge to "guilty," and Judge Sprague imposed a fine of $1,000 and costs, of which Jarrell paid $500.

Five O'Clock Coffee Sponsored By Fashion Authority

FIVE o'clock tea may be all right in its way, but there is something more thrilling—if you get what we mean—about five o'clock coffee, especially when the said coffee is manufactured on a French percolator by Marie Beynon Ray, one of the best known fashion writers in the country, who is of course au fait of all things French, since fashions, femininity and France are a pardonably entangling alliance. Mrs. Ray, a connoisseur of belles lettres is also a connoisseur of part de la cuisine. A delicious accompaniment to her five o'clock "coffee" are individual coffee cakes, for which Mrs. Ray has consented to give us the recipe. Here it is.

2 cups flour
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
4 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons Cacao
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
Sift dry ingredients together; mix in Cacao; add beaten egg to milk and add to dry ingredients to make soft dough; divide dough into six long, narrow pieces; with hands roll out on board each piece very long and thin; spread with butter; cut each in two and bring in center twist two pieces together and bring ends around to form crescent. Put into greased pan; sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake in hot oven 15 to 20 minutes. 1 tablespoon hot water.

While hot, brush over with the icing made with 1/2 cup confectioner's sugar moistened with 1 tablespoon hot water.

The Big Bosses

There was more than passing significance in the conference here Tuesday between George Brennan, big Democratic boss of Chicago, and Tom Taggart of Indiana.

Anxious For Mother and Babe to Return

MRS. CAROLINE CARTER

BABY CAROLINE CARTER

A. W. Carter of Toledo, who is at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Caroline Leitchner, 1228 Kinner's Lane, has failed to receive any word from his wife, Mrs. Caroline Leitchner, and baby Caroline, 10 months old, who disappeared Saturday evening from a fair grounds at Findlay, O.

Mr. Carter says that he is sure his wife still loves him and that she was tricked or forced into deserting him by a young man friend with whom he worked as a book salesman several months. Carter and the girl's mother are anxious for her to return home.

The husband is a friend of the Klan and members of this organization have volunteered to aid in the search for his wife and baby.

Campbell

As much as the Moore anti-Klan plank already has been offered to the committee.

It was reported that he would pigeon-hole the request for another caucus without definitely refusing to call one.

Durbin To Demand Poll

NEW YORK, June 25.—(By the Associated Press)—The factional row within the Ohio delegation, an outgrowth of the defeat for national committee of W. W. Durbin by Ed. Moore, took on greater proportions today.

Durbin claimed the delegation was the victim of "careful maneuvering" by James Campbell, former Ohio governor, and a staunch booster for James M. Cox for the presidential nomination.

"The Anti-Klan plank should not have been endorsed by the Ohio delegation," Durbin declared. "It will hurt our local fight in Ohio. It was put over by Campbell. He didn't ask for it when the delegates voted on it."

Other delegates, however, said the boys had their chance and there was no response so Campbell declared the vote unanimous for the Anti-Klan plank.

"We will look out for our own interests," said Durbin. "Campbell can't put anything over on me. We can demand and we will demand a poll of the delegation, on every important question hereafter."

and pulled first this way and that by the surging crowd, was taken up to the platform, followed by the four glorio trumpeters.

After more than a full half hour of constant pandemonium the demonstration was still going full blast. Miss Normand at this time was standing on a chair on the speakers platform, waving her handkerchiefs in one hand, the handanna handkerchiefs in the other, radiant in her Goddess of Liberty costume, over the starchy bodies of which the golden hair fell in gorgeous disarray.

At 4:10 the demonstration was still going full blast.

The glorio trumpeters were still trumpeting and the entire vast hall was a seething mass of excited humanity. The parade of standards continued, standards being decorated with California state flags. And the band having exhausted its wind, resorted to straight drum work.

It appeared that fully 600 or 700 of the total 1100 delegates in their chairs were howling, cheering, fighting, throwing their hats in the air.

At 4:25 Chairman Walsh began to pound his gavel for order.

The demonstration lasted just six minutes short of an hour.

George E. Brennan of Illinois, was recognized, and moved a recess until 10:30 tomorrow morning.

Recess Kreener seconded the motion. It carried.

Pandemonium

Convention Gets a Late Start

The convention was called to order at 11:32 by Temporary Chairman Pat Harrison. All delegations were represented at the time, but there were many absentees. The galleries were very sparsely filled and even the floor seats reservations found many empty chairs.

Because of the late arrival of the delegates, the convention was almost futile. Many of the delegation leaders, such as Harrison, were working among delegates far from their sections and were slow in getting back.

After ten minutes there was no semblance of order and the milling continued.

Few heads are seen among the delegates, but as they are, there is as much variety as there is in women's fashions. One New Jersey delegate was wearing a long, flowing gown. An Idaho delegate wore the longest headpiece. His whiskers were down to his waist.

Kansas women delegates brought bunches of sunflowers to the convention. They probably will stage a sunflower shower when Governor Jonathan Davis is placed in nomination.

One Colorado delegate asked to obtain the name of the woman Hawaiian delegate, sought to avoid the difficulties of pronouncing it by approaching the delegate with this question:

"How do you spell your name?"

"W-I-L-S-O-N," the woman replied.

"Mrs. John H.?"

"I nearly dropped dead," the poor girl said when she reported the information.

When the sun worked around to the Oklahoma section, a beautiful gray-haired woman delegate, Mrs. Frank B. Lucas, of Ponca City, raised a Japanese sunshade and held it over her head. She merely smiled against the protests of the police and sergeant-at-arms and maintained her position.

Have Hard Time Getting Convention Started

Tom Taggart was caught in the jam at a time when Harrison was demanding that the police and sergeant-at-arms clear the aisles. Taggart was attempting to talk with a woman delegate and was being viciously against being shoved along.

"This convention must begin," shouted Harrison. "The delegates must be seated."

He then called on Bishop Thomas F. Gaffey of Tennessee, to deliver the in-resolution highly commending the national committee for its selection of Pat Harrison as the keynote of the convention was loudly adopted. The resolutions specifically commended the keynote of Harrison as a chart for the coming campaign.

Underwood Placed in Nomination

With Cleveland and Wilson gone, there is none other to equal this American in the fight to restore to the people the confidence in their government," declared Fordney Johnston, of Birmingham, in nominating Senator Underwood this afternoon.

"The candidate we propose is as spotless in character as was Washington and with the same compelling and self-evident nobility," Johnston continued. "The search light of a political campaign would make you prouder of him as the days pass."

Recalling Senator Underwood's 30 years in congress as leader of both house and senate, Johnston declared that his public service has been unequalled by any man now living.

Fordney Johnston, of California came to the platform when Walsh ordered that the roll of states begin to ascertain which ones were to present candidates for the presidential nomination. Johnston is a young man, who spoke easily and earnestly of the virtues of Senator Oscar Underwood, of Alabama.

The call of the roll of states was resumed and Governor Brough, of Arkansas, went to the platform to nominate Senator Robinson of that state. He spoke briefly and was given a good hand when he concluded.

Robinson Placed in Nomination

He said Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas—"A great American, a proven leader who can heal all party wounds; a 20th century crusader for the immortal principles of Democracy."

"A youth of adversity, a man of virtue and honesty," said Brough. "This distinguished native son of Arkansas, has, by force of ability, dint of energy, and dynamic personality reached one of the highest places within the gift of our party."

After the second nominating speech the leaders held a conference to consider taking adjournment until tomorrow morning.

It appeared that the California delegation which has McAdoo as its favorite, was willing but that the Smith forces did not wish it.

McAdoo Placed in Nomination

It was finally decided to proceed with the roll call and on the calling of California, Senator Phelan mounted the platform to nominate Wm. G. McAdoo.

Many delegates rose in their chairs, holding a demonstration amid cheering and waving California flags. The galleries participated with applause, shouting, ringing of cowbells and blowing of whistles.

The demonstration lasted several minutes.

McAdoo New Jackson, Says Ex-Senator Phelan

William Gibbs McAdoo was visualized as a new Jackson come to lead the nation back to "business-like government for the common people in the speech of former Senator James D. Phelan, of California, placing him in nomination before the Democratic convention here today.

Setting forth the McAdoo claims to the office, Phelan quoted the words of Woodrow Wilson when McAdoo resigned the secretaryship of the treasury after the war.

"In my judgment this country has never had an able, more resourceful, yet prudent, a more uniformly efficient secretary of the treasury," Wilson wrote.

The chief accomplishments of McAdoo as president of the Federal Reserve Organization of the Federal Reserve system and the Victory loans.

Revision of the treasury system, the federal farm loan bureau and the railroad administration to the benefit of the farmer.

Inaugurator of the War Risk Insurance Law.

Builder of the McAdoo tunnels under the Hudson river from New York to New Jersey.

Protector of religious freedom.

Regarding this last point about which a furor has developed in pre-convention days, Phelan said:

"McAdoo is deeply grounded in American principles, the constitution and the law. He opposes any discrimination on account of religious belief. America was the protest of the free men of the world against the religious bigotry and persecutions of the past; and it is a matter of constitutional principle and present duty to respect and protect the freedom of thought and speech—of religion, of press, of assembly."

Walsh finished his address at 12:52 and immediately the delegates leaped to their feet and for the second time since the opening of the convention a parade of delegates and their standards followed him around the hall.

Cheer leaders shouting through huge megaphones, appeared in several delegations.

At the heights of the demonstration a white dove was let loose from the speaker's stand and it flew around the hall while the crowd applauded.

While the band played "In the Good Old Summer Time" Walsh conferred with leaders on the platform regarding the procedure. Delegates returned to their standards to their standards to their standards but continued a stand up stretch for a time longer, joining in songs.

Walsh Breaks The Gavel

After the demonstration had stretched into 15 minutes, Walsh pounded for order, breaking the gavel.

Obtaining order finally, Walsh introduced Police Commissioner Richard E. Enverick, who announced that after adjournment all delegates would be the guests of the city on a free trip to the home of Samuel Untermyer's country estate.

Senator Carter Glass was recognized and presented the usual resolution governing making and organization of the National Committee following the nomination of a party ticket to get ready for the coming election.

The resolution carried without dissent.

The committee on rules reported:

That the rules of the last convention, including the two-thirds nominating rule shall apply to this convention.

That no delegates shall occupy the floor for more than thirty minutes in debate unless by unanimous consent of the convention.

The report recommended the following order of business:

1. Report of committee on credentials.

2. Report of Committee on Permanent Organization.

3. Indication of members of Democratic National Committee.

4. Presentation of candidates for President.

5. Report of Committee on Platform.

6. Selection of a candidate for president.

7. Presentation and selection of a candidate for vice president.

Squell Move Two-Thirds Rule

It carried without a dissenting vote and thus the final squelching of the threatened movement to abolish the two-thirds rule was effected.

By approving the order of business recommended, the convention indicated that the nomination for presidential candidates would occur as expected before adjournment today.

A resolution was adopted providing empowering the Democratic National Committee to fix the time and place of the next National Convention and ordering delegates to the next National Convention be fixed exactly upon the basis of representation in the congress and that Alaska and other territories and possession be allowed two delegates each.

"The next order of business," Walsh then shouted, "Is the nomination of candidates for president of the United States."

THE BIG LOT SALE BEGINS AT AUCTION

Balance of Clark Addition will be sold to highest bidders. One-fourth down, balance in twenty-four equal monthly installments with interest or 2 per cent discount if paid in full on day of sale.

Brass band, whirlwind Auctioneer, plenty to eat and drink at noon hour.

Free Ford to the lucky person. You do not have to bid nor buy to get the Ford but you must be there when your name is called to get it.

About thirty new homes have been built in this addition the past year. Why go any farther when you want a good investment? The road to the bridge has been sold and will be improved at once. This will insure increased values now.

Again I want to call your attention to the fact that this addition has sidewalks, graded and graveled streets and fine trees over the entire addition, plenty of good water, splendid drainage, also have about twenty-five nice camp sites left with large shade trees which will also be sold to the highest bidder and these sites are above sixty-six feet of water, the statements of some knockers to the contrary notwithstanding.

Don't forget that this property is on the Trail just a few minutes from Portsmouth, and is ideally located for those who want to live in the country and work in Portsmouth.

MARKET STOCKS CHURN ABOUT IN NARROW LIMITS

Shares Unsettled; Railroad Issues

Make Better Showing Than Industrials

NEW YORK, June 25.—Stock prices moved to higher ground in today's market despite a temporary flurry of selling in the oil group based on the filing of a government antitrust suit against a score of the leading oil companies.

Rails again gave an impressive demonstration of strength, more than a dozen issues attaining new peak prices of the year. The close was firm. Sales approximated $75,000 shares.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Stock prices fluctuated unevenly at the opening of today's market, reflecting the indecision evident in yesterday's trading.

ing. Variations were exceedingly narrow, with most stocks showing only small fractional changes. Chesapeake and Ohio, Bethlehem Steel and Sinclair moved lower, but Fleischmann reached a 1924 high price.

The principal market interests dull of the edge of trading, although differences of opinion among speculators were indicated by the churning about of various stocks within narrow limits. Tobacco shares reflected extensive realizing, Schlitz dropping 2 points and Tobacco Products a point. Railroad issues made a better showing than industrials. Nickel Plate climbing a point, while Southern Railway, Great Northern preferred and New York, Ontario and Western reached 1924 peak prices. Cuyamali Fruit rallied 1 1/2. No transactions in United States Steel were recorded until the end of the first half hour and Baldwin, another customer-owned leader, had not appeared on the tape at that time. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

Prices swung upward before noon, but trading in the general list continued in relatively light volume. Bullish demonstrations again took place in the low priced rails, additional new 1924 highs being recorded by New Haven, Pere Marquette preferred and Katy preferred. Brooklyn-Manhattan issues also moved to new high ground on buying undoubtedly inspired by the granting of a petition for an increased sale to the New York and Queens Traction company.

Strength of a number of specialists suggested a renewal of pool operations which have been aided recently by easy money rates. Local Wiles Biscuit, Fleischmann and General Baking each extended their early gains two or three points. Call money opened at 2 per cent.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK MARKETS
Stocks firm; rails move to a new high ground. Bonds stable; several foreign issues at 1924 highs.

Foreign exchanges steady. Sterling and francs improve. Cotton higher; trade buying. Sugar quiet; buying limited. Coffee dull and unchanged.

Wheat steady; sympathy with corn. Corn strong; bad crop reports. Cattle higher; good shipping demand. Hogs steady.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Predictions of more rain in the west together with crop damage reports, especially from Illinois, led to a rapid early advance in the corn market today. July delivery jumped to 91 1/2, going above 90 for the first time this season.

September also made a new top record. One of the foremost crop experts of the country said the present outlook for corn was desperate, with parity in the experience of a great many years. Corn opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 5c higher with July 90 1/2@90 and September 87 1/2@88 1/2, were followed by a swift irregular advance with numerous temporary setbacks.

The close was unsettled at 1 1/2 to 4 1/2c advance, July 89 1/2@90 1/2. Wheat and oats responded to corn strength. At first, however, better weather to the northwest, including Canada, had a transient bearish influence on wheat. After opening unchanged to 1/2c lower, July 1 1/2@1 1/2, and September 1 1/2@1 1/2, wheat prices rose all around to well above yesterday's finish.

Oats started unchanged to 3/4c up, September 43 1/2 and later showed decided general gains.

Provisions were firm, sympathizing with corn. The close was firm at the same as yesterday's finish, July 1 1/4@1 1/4 and Sept. 1 1/4@1 1/4.

Bond Prices Drift; Steady Demand

For Low And Medium Priced Rails

NEW YORK, June 25.—Bond prices drifted little in today's quiet trading, although a firm undercurrent prevailed. United Kingdom 5 1/2s of 1937 reached a new high price for the year at 101 1/2. Steady demand for low and medium priced rail issues brought about moderate improvement in Denver and Rio Grande, New Haven and New York, West Chester and Boston issues, but a number of the high grade mortgages, including the Pennsylvania bonds ruled steady.

Union Gas 7s mounted 2 1/2 points to a new 1924 high record at 127 1/2. Liberty bonds ruled steady.

JUST A PLAIN FELLOW

AMONG those also mentioned in connection with the Democratic presidential nomination, none has had a more interesting career than Senator Harrison who opened the national convention as temporary chairman.

His real name is Byron Patterson Harrison, rather an imposing sort of nomenclature, and the Senator can run his genealogy back to both the Presidents Harrison, but being just a plain sort of a fellow he has shortened his first two names to just Pat.

Father Harrison was a Confederate soldier, who was impoverished by the war, so Pat, who was born in 1881, was well along in years before he ever had a silver spoon in his mouth. As a small boy he sold newspapers and hustled around at odd jobs, acquiring a meagre fund and working his way through the University of Louisiana by serving as a waiter. He taught school and studied law between classes. At 23 he was elected county attorney and has been going up ever since, serving several terms in congress, rising to the United States senate and now being a presidential possibility.

He is accounted one of the best speakers in the country, having a big, resonant voice, an unusual command of language and a sharp wit and a ready humor that are most engaging. There is one thing in his propaganda we do not like, the statement of his religion. When a man exploits his church and lodge affiliations we always feel he's got a mighty weak spot in him somewhere.

WHAT IT IS ALL ABOUT

FOR most of last week news from Providence, capital of Rhode Island, held first page on all the dailies. It isn't at all usual for "Little Rhody" to break into print with such a spurge, so, naturally, there is some eagerness to know what it is all about.

Sifted down to its final basis it is a simple question of whether or not this is a republican form of government, with the power in the majority to rule.

The constitution and laws of Rhode Island are archaic. That is they were made to fit conditions when the people were settled in sparse communities, no one greatly exceeding another in magnitude. Representation in the legislature was given to these separate communities and so long as the state stood still the plan worked well and was fairly just.

In time, however, the state began to grow, large towns and great cities grew up, but as the district representation still remains the condition is that the small communities, though tremendously outnumbered by the larger places in population, still remain in control of the legislature.

The Democrats, who are in control of the state government, are seeking the submission of a constitutional amendment that, if adopted, will more nearly give representation according to population.

The Republicans are opposing submission, because under the present system they have fixed and eternal control of the legislature, they holding unanimously the many small communities, which never change, while the Democrats are concentrated in the fewer towns and cities.

To coerce submission the Democrats have brought about a deadlock in the senate, where they have the presiding officer, in the person of the lieutenant governor. The consequence is that no appropriation bills have been passed and all the state departments have been without funds since January last, while constabulary, police and fire forces vary the rowing and fighting in which senators, who ought to be grave and reverend, are indulging.

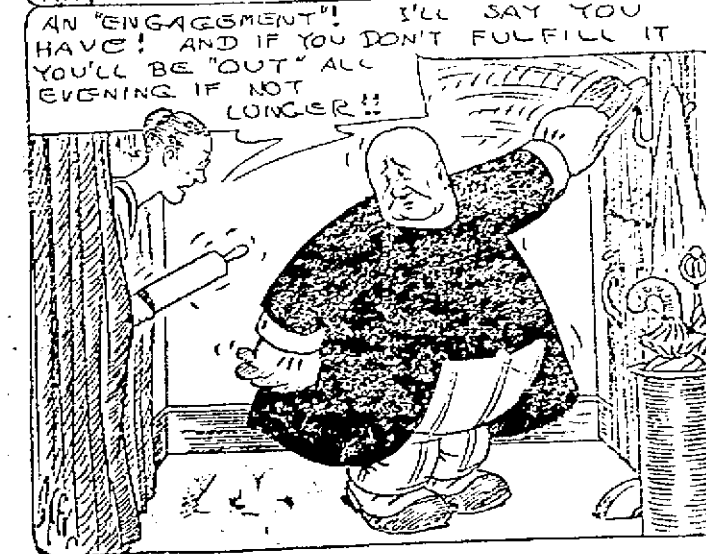

SOMETHING RELIABLE

AT last the world has something definite out of Russia, some information that offers a reasonable basis for credence.

This is the report of Albert Thomas, director of the International Labor Bureau, to the labor conference at Geneva, Switzerland. Mr. Thomas avers he has documentary evidence presenting the actual conditions under Soviet rule and they certainly draw a sorry picture of that benighted and accursed land. They show that agricultural production has declined one-third and manufacturing two-thirds since the war.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

Communism and governmental control have worked a universal blight. The peasant lessens his production and the laborer limits his output, it is fair to assume, because there is not the incentive of individual gain and profit.

Such is the universal paralysis and such is the lack of incentive that one million five hundred thousand should be workers are idle and their number is on the increase.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 25—Dawn. Across the street in an office building hallway is an aged woman on her knees scrubbing. She is bent with wrinkles and rheumatic. She symbolizes New York's great human tragedy—the aged and forsaken.

Thousands of these women, touched by the sear and yellow of years, creep out of holes in the middle of the night to take out a pitiful existence. Most of them are desertion wives and mothers, caught in the backwash of life and marooned in poverty.

The big event in the lives of these who polish marble and scum hotel lobbies is early New Year's morning when tipsy revelers toss them coins to scramble for. Last year one ancient crone in the scramble slipped on a bar of soap and fell, breaking her hip.

They live many miles from their work and a 2 o'clock in the morning sleep into the "scrubwomen's special"—the subway expresses that whisk them to back-breaking toil while the city sleeps. Shortly after sun up they are home again seeking sustenance in slumber.

There is about them that dumb and hopeless resignation to life. They are known as Aunt Marys and Old Mays. In the old days they sought fleeting moments of false happiness in rum, but the price they must pay these days is too high.

The pay is about $35 a month. Even a high up and back tennement room costs $20 a month, but leaves them $15 for clothes, food and carfare. Because they are injured to constant loneliness their lips tingle as they work. Sometimes there is a eerie, false cackle—a ghost of past happiness.

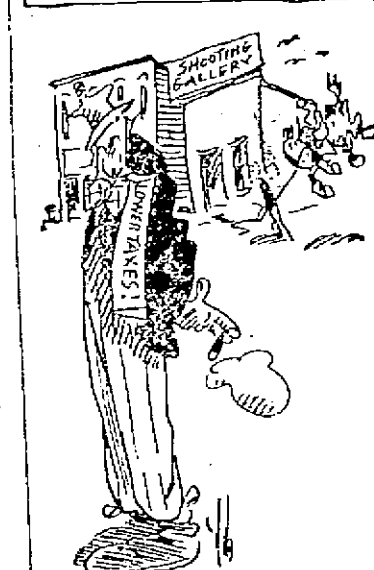

A charitable worker says they are the only class of poverty stricken workers who rarely seek alms. It is told of one who was bending over her brush in one of the fine hotels one morning. She looked up and then quickly turned away. A magnificently gowned woman shuddered and hurried into an elevator. She was the old woman's daughter.

A famous New York neurologist says nothing makes for peace and repose like having a swimming gold fish in the room. He says it induces thought and contemplation. Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Is Improving

Mrs. Charles Ashmore, Jr., who was recently operated upon for appendicitis in the Hempstead Hospital, has been removed to the home of her sister, Mrs. Virgil Dixon, on Campbell avenue, where she is getting along nicely.

The storm had bowed this tree upon the ground. From which it can no longer draw its share.

Of spring's new wine and branches dried and bare. Are silent in a time of lovely sound. But through a season past the dust had found.

A refuge from the wind in hollows where. The trunk is shattered, and the rains come there. And soil grew fertile from decay that bound.

A robin made the nook his dining hall. With fruit and flower seeds from far and near. And sunned himself and sang beneath the blue. That crumbled his ruined castle wall. Here blooms the first wild flower of the year.

Genuine Admiration
As the dancer took his partner down to supper, she seemed to hypnotize the waiter, told off to serve them, for he seemed incapable of taking his eyes off her.
At last the dancer could stand it no longer.
"I say, my man," he observed. "What makes you stare so rudely at this lady?"
"It ain't rudeness, sir, believe me, it ain't," returned the waiter. "It's genuine admiration. This is the fifth time she's been down to supper tonight."
